FIRE SWEEPING WIDE AREA IN NORFOLK

SENATORS' WAY OF SELECTING ATTORNEYS HIT

Wickersham Group Raps Choices Made on Basis of Political Acts.

GRAND JURY SYSTEM CALLED UNECONOMIC

Asks Methodized Control of Prosecutions in Plea to Hoover.

(Associated Press.)

Political interference by the Senate in the appointment of Federal district attorneys was condemned yesterday by the National Law Observance Enforcement Commission.

In a report to President Hoover, the Wickersham group said that treating the office of district attorney "as a reward for political activity is a serious menace to enforcement of law."

"The claim of the Senate not merely to exercise a collective power of rejecting unfit nominations, but to dictate appointments as the patronage of senators of the State in which the district lies has often had a bad effect upon the personnel and conduct of the office," the commission said.

"Also in States where the senators [illegible] opposition to the administra- [illegible] happens too often that po- [illegible]etons insist on treating [illegible] political patronage, and [illegible] and unimpro[illegible] the President of the in[illegible]dardsville and [illegible]nd support he should [illegible]tain, about [illegible] order to make suitable ap[illegible]pointments."

Prosecutors Held Responsible.

The commission arraigned Federal, State and local prosecutors as being more responsible for proposed abolition of grand juries, except as a general investigating body for inquiries into the conduct of public officers and in case of large conspiracies.

Its formal recommendations were:

Elimination so far as may be possible, in the American system of Government, of political considerations in the selection and appointment of Federal district attorneys and prosecuting officers and of appointments based upon political activity service.

Better provisions for the selection and tenure of prosecutors in the States, and especially for the organization, personnel, tenure and compensation of the staff of the prosecutor's office.

Such an organization of the legal profession in each State as shall insure competency, character, and discipline among those who are engaged in the criminal courts.

Systematized Control.

A systematized control of prosecutions in each State under a director of public prosecutions or some equivalent official, with secure tenure and concentrated and defined responsibility.

Provisions for legal interrogation of accused persons under suitable safeguards.

The theory that English juries convict to a much greater extent than those in the United States and that there is less escape in England through jury acquittals was discarded by the commission.

Instead, it held prosecutions largely to blame and said the great difference between English and American justice "lies in the relatively small number of British cases that are dismissed by means other than jury trial."

"When the number of prosecutions instituted each year has become enormous and beyond the possibilities of proper trial, the power of nolle prosequi, as a means of selecting those to be tried, makes the prosecutor the real arbiter of what laws shall be enforced and against whom, • • •" the report said.

Quiet Choking Off.

"Habitual defenders of criminals have learned to take advantage of this power. Where exercised by assistants under no responsible organization, it lends itself to the quiet choking off of prosecutions under political influence.

"It is an anomaly that the powers and discretion of the judge, with respect to the small percentage of prosecutions which ever come before him should be so thoroughly hedged about with restrictions, while this power and discretion of the prosecuting attorney with respect to disposition of the great majority of initiated prosecutions should remain so absolute."

Asserting police and prosecutors feel strongly the need of being able to interrogate suspected persons, the commission said under the present system, extralegal examinations go on continually of persons ignorant or unadvised of their rights or without means of employing counsel and making effective protest.

Chiefly to Malefactor.

Thus, on one hand, the guaranty is of advantage chiefly to the malefactor of means or with organization behind him, the report held, and on the other hand tempts criminal investigators and prosecutors constantly to unlawful means of enforcing the law.

Italian-Vatican Truce Is Still Held Possible

Pope's Move in Forming New Catholic Clubs May Pave Way, Although Pontiff Orders Work Suspended on New Churches.

Rome, June 7 (A.P.).—A possible solution of the grave conflict between the Catholic Church and the Italian state was seen in some quarters here today in the creation of new Catholic clubs, a method now being tried in several dioceses of northern Italy.

The location of these dioceses was temporarily withheld by the Vatican today, but it was learned new organizations are to be called "congregations" and are to be more directly connected with the church than were the dissolved Catholic clubs.

This was only one of several indications that caused both the Vatican and the government today to present a decidedly more optimistic atmosphere than at any time since the storm broke ten days ago.

A complete settlement of the difficulties was admitted not to be in sight yet, however.

There were persons on both sides of the controversy who said it probably would be impossible to find an entirely satisfactory solution soon. "If ever," Premier Mussolini and Pope Pius, it was said, are too far apart on the question of the education of youth, and on other points, to make any complete settlement an easy matter.

The present hope of both sides seems to be to find a temporary solution which will be humiliating to neither and workable for a number of months during which serious efforts could be made to effect a permanent settlement of the questions which have arisen since the concordat was signed.

A reorganization of the dissolved clubs is forbidden by law, but Vatican observers said that the formation of "congregations" was authorized and that Premier Mussolini might overlook any technical objections since it would be difficult for him to find a better solution.

Sharply contrasting with this spirit of hope was the suspension of all new church work which, it was understood, the Pope had ordered. This order would be effective in Vatican

U. S. WILL SELL PROPERTIES OF CAPONE IN SUIT

Millions in Real Estate and Other Holdings Will Be Seized.

TAX CASE NOT LINKED WITH CRIMINAL TRIAL

Rumor Says "Scarface Al" Is Likely to Plead Guilty and Go to Prison.

Chicago, June 7 (U.P.).—The United States Government plans to seize the millions in property amassed by Scarface Al Capone in his liquor, vice and gambling operations, and sell them at public auction.

If any one has a hankering for an eight-ton, armor-plated limousine, the Capone auction will be the place to buy it. The Government likely will have for sale also Capone's armchair with a back of steel guaranteed to stop machine gun bullets, his diamonds, his breweries, his distilleries, his stocks, bonds, and his luxurious homes completely equipped with shotguns, blackjacks and other household furnishings which gangsters have found necessary.

Civil liens will be filed against the archcriminal's property throughout the country within the next few days, Robert E. Neely, acting collector of internal revenue, announced tonight.

U. S. Claims $215,083 in Taxes.

The liens, and the subsequent auction of the Capone riches, Mr. Neely explained, are to secure the $215,083 in taxes which the Government charges he owes on an uncovered income of about $1,000,000 betwen 1924 and 1929. Capone was believed to have taken in millions more during that period, but so well disguised were his operations that Federal investigators could find only a small part of them.

"Scarface Al," of the wide grin, the livid cut on his left cheek, the gorilla-like shoulders and the pudgy middle, has been indicted in 22 criminal counts charging fraud against the Federal Government. If found guilty, he faces a maximum term of 32 years in prison and a fine of $80,000.

"The civil action is compulsory," said Mr. McNeely. "It is entirely separate from any criminal proceedings by the United States district attorney.

Civil Actions to Be Pushed.

"It doesn't matter whether Capone pleads gilty to the criminal charges in the indictment returned against him Friday, or what arrangements he may make with the prosecutor, the civil actions are entirely separate and must be prosecuted."

Mr. Neely said that the income tax laws are so all-inclusive that the United States may seize everything he owns, every dollar, every bit of real estate, all of his dozens of suits, his gorgeous silk shirts, his machine guns, automobiles, jewels, even his gambling house roulette wheels, his beer trucks and his personal champagne stocks.

Federal authorities eyed auspiciously, meanwhile, the $50,000 suit said to have been started by Attorney

LACONIC COMMUNIQUE AVOIDS REPARATIONS

Cooperation With Other Powers Is Assured to Effect Recovery.

Chequers, Buckinghamshire, England, June 7 (A.P.).—Promising each other to "deal with the present crisis in close collaboration," Germany's and England's foreign ministers and premiers today finished their two-day conference at the country home of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald here.

Every phase of the world's economic situation was discussed thoroughly, with frankness and openness.

After Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius departed for London a laconic communique was issued to the press. It did not mention the question of reparations, although Herr Bruening is understood to have asked MacDinald's assistance in sounding out Germany's creditors, including the United States, regarding postponement of some of the heavy reparations payments.

Meetings Called Formal.

The communique read:

"During the week-end the German Chancellor Bruening and German foreign minister, Dr. Curtius, visited Chequers. British ministers present were the prime minister, the secretary of state for foreign affairs and the president of the board of trade.

"On Sunday the Prime Minister and Miss MacDonald gave a luncheon at which were present the German Ambassador and Baroness Von Neurath, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Alexander, the Governor of the Bank of England, Mr. and Mrs. George Bernard Shaw, Sir Robert Van Sittart, Sir Clive and Lady Wigram, Miss Sheila MacDonald, Miss Byvoets, Count Bernstorff, Sir Frederick Leith Ross and Mr. Malcolm MacDonald.

"The visit was arranged several months ago as a means of establishing personal contacts. The opportunity of these formal meetings was taken for friendly talks on the position in which the German Reich and other industrial sates now find themselves.

Need for Allocation Stressed.

"Special stress was laid by the German ministers on difficulties of the existing position of Germany and the need for alleviation. The British ministers, for their part, called attention to the world-wide character of the present depression and its special influence on their own country. addition to efforts and measures of a

"Both parties were agreed that, in a national character, a revival of confidence and of prosperity depended upon international cooperation.

"In this spirit both governments will endeavor to deal with the present crisis in close collaboration with

James W. Atwell, of N street near Thirty-eighth streetnorthwest, was killed in the Conduit road crash.

Another Maryland accident took a toll of eight injured. Four women and four children were victims in a head-on crash on the Waldorf pike, but two infants escaped injury.

Struck by a Washington-bound automobile as he was about to cross the Washington-Baltimore boulevard early last night, Mr. Egan, who was 63 years old, was killed almost instantly.

The alleged driver of the car that struck Mr. Egan, Clarence Worthy, 18, of Girard street northwest, near Thirteenth street, was arrested by Sheriff Tom Garrison, of Hyattsville, and lodged in the Bladensburg Jail pending an inquest at the Riverdale Fire Department building tomorrow night. The inquest was ordered by County Judge R. E. Altimus.

Mr. Egan had gone to a Riverdale drug store to make a purchase and was on his way to his home nearby when the accident occurred. His son Pat, 12, lay in bed awaiting the return of his father. The wife and mother of the family, Mrs. James P. Egan, had preceded them to a vacation they had planned at North

SEVEN BLOCKS OF CITY RAZED, DESPITE FIGHT

Fire Uncontrolled Hours Later; Apparatus From Other Towns Aids.

GASOLINE EXPLOSION STARTS BIG BLAZE

Special to The Washington Post.

Norfolk, Va., June 7.—Explosion of a tank of gasoline on an oil barge moored to the piers of the Buxton Line this afternoon started a conflagration that late tonight had spread for seven blocks and destroyed property valued at approximately $5,000,000.

The fire was still raging at that hour and fire departments from Richmond, Newport News, Suffolk, Portsmouth, Elizabeth City, N. C., Emporia, Phoebus, Hampton Roads Naval Operating Base and the Norfolk Navy Yard and a fleet of tugs were battling desperately to get it under control.

The terminals of the Buxton Line and the Norfolk Mobjack Bay Steamboat Co., and the huge plants of the American Peanut Co., Bain Peanut Co., Dixie Peanut Co., Gwaltney Peanut Co., Norfolk Storage Co., and numerous business houses along Water street from Church street to Commercial place had either been destroyed or badly damaged.

Terminals Totally Destroyed.

The Buxton Line was formerly the terminals of the Old Dominion Steamship Co., which operates steamers between Norfolk and New York. These terminals were totally destroyed, together with the steamer David Jr., which was used as a freight and passenger vessel and operated between Norfolk and points in North Carolina.

The fire spread for two blocks up Church street, destroying everything in its path. It reached the corner of Main and Church streets, where the huge furniture establishment of Levy Crockin Co. fell a victim.

Sparks from the burning peanut factories fell on Main street two blocks from the conflagration and the Ballentine Hotel, Victaria Hotel and a number of stores ignited.

Firemen were busy endeavoring to extinguish fire two blocks from the original scene of the conflagration, but as fast as one was gotten under control another would break out in another section. A number of firemen were overcome by smoke and heat and guests in the Hotels Ballentine and Victoria became hysterical and had to leap through a rain of fire to safety. Miss Betty Bailey, a guest at the Commercial Hotel, three blocks from the fire, became hysterical and had to be sent to a hospital.

Wind Handicaps Firemen.

Firemen were handicapped by a strong southwest wind which blew the flames directly to the streets and into their faces. Exploding barrels of oil stored in warehouses at the Buxton piers gave forth detonations similar to the discharge of huge guns, and great volumes of burning oil were hurled far into the air and into the faces of the firemen on roofs of buildings 200 feet from the fire.

Even the tugs in the harbor could not combat the spread of the flames because they could not get close enough to the burning buildings to make their work effective. The Southern Railway, Seaboard Air Line Railway, Atlantic Coast Line, Pennsylvania Railroad and fire fighting boats from the Navy Yard, did valiant work in saving property.

The Naval Base and Navy Yard sent approximately 500 sailors and Marines to patrol the streets in the fire area and to assist the firemen in their attempts to hold the flames in check.

Sailors Aid in Fight.

CHURCH PROPAGANDA FORBIDDEN BY SPAIN

Ban Directed Principally to Clerical Issues; Army Promotions Hit.

Madrid, June 7 (A.P.).—Authorities in various Spanish towns have warned ecclestiastical officials against dissemination of clerical propaganda.

The Governor of Teruel informed the bishop and several priests to cease spreading propaganda in behalf of Cardinal Segura and the bishops of Malaga and Vitoria, who have been deported.

The Governor of Castell warned the Franciscan Father Albantoso after he said to have delivered a sermon at Morella which caused disturbances among the populace.

At the town of Alcira municipal officials plan to send a representative to all clerical meetings.

The newspaper La Tierra said today Minister of War Azana was preparing a decree revoking army promotions made under the dictatorship and restoring organic military laws governing promotions.

Under the decree, Lieut. Gen. Jose Sanjuro would revert to his former command of general of division, and Lieut. Gen. Federico Berenguer, brother of the former premier, would become a brigadier general.

Dr. M. J. Coriat, noted Jewish financier at Morocco, told the newspaper El Debate that plans are under way for emigration of Spanish Jews to Latin America. He said President Niceto Alcala Zamora had promised to aid in carrying out the project.

Santander, Spain, June 7 (A.P.).—The park surrounding Magdalena Park, former summer home of exiled King Alfonso, will be opened to the public tomorrow. The republican mayor ordered the populace to respect the property and not to use the grounds for picnics. Vehicles will be prohibited.

Philadelphia Clubman And Banker Kills Self

Philadelphia, June 7 (A.P.).—C. Cresson Wistar, jr., socially prominent clubman and banker, shot and killed himself today in his home. Members of the family said the shooting was accidental, but police pronounced it suicide.

PORTO RICO REVIVES MOVE FOR FREEDOM

New Vigor Put Into Demand at Session of Former Unionist Party.

San Juan, Porto Rico, June 7 (A.P.).—Reviving with new vigor its demand for independence of Porto Rico from the United States, the party which has been known for more than 25 years as "Unionist" tonight continued its convention held for the purpose of modifying its platform.

The convention was presided over by Senator Antonio R. Barcelo, for many years a dominant political figure in Porto Rico.

It was still undetermined tonight whether the party's platform will include independence as its sole aim or whether a compromise might be reached.

By a recent decision of the Porto Rico Supreme Court the party has been denied use of its old name, "Unionist," in the next election. A new name and some changes in the platform have been proposed for adoption.

The present convention was called after the insistence of Senator Bar-

Cash, Gems Taken In Holdup of Bus

Shamrock, Tex., June 7 (A.P.).—Modern stage coach robbers halted a westbound bus near here early today and robbed 18 passengers of $668 and jewelry valued at $273.

Two men boarded the bus at Erick, Okla., and halted the machine by drawing revolvers and compelling W. E. Tramwell, driver, to halt. Five other men, in two automobiles, then drew alongside.

Several passengers saved valuables by concealing them. All of the victims were questioned concerning their homes, and were returned enough money to telegraph relatives for funds. After the robbery the bandits disabled the motor of the coach and departed in their automobiles. Later a suspect was arrested at Erick.

Bishop Announces Donation Of $100,000 for Cathedral

Anonymous Gift to Be Used for Building South Transept Will Provide Work for Additional Men to Relieve Unemployment.

An anonymous donation of $100,000 to be used in forwarding construction at Washington Cathedral and to provide employment for additional workmen was announced yesterday by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington.

The gift was transmitted from a New York bank with the request of the unknown donor that the money be applied immediately to building of the south transept. Bishop Freeman said that he was highly elated over this special request by [illegible] the north transept is far ad[illegible]d it is important that it [illegible] transept be started witho[illegible] at both may be available [illegible] observance of the George [illegible] bicentennial.

The north and south transepts are the arms of the cross formed by the cathedral fabric. Their completion will bring erection of the cathedral about to the half-way mark, leaving the nave, the central tower and the two west towers to be built. Portions of the edifice now completed include the massive foundations, the entire crypt chapels, the apse, the choir and the children's chapel.

Advancement of construction without a let-up is in harmony with the policy of Bishop Freeman that building is necessary to improve existing economic conditions. In a recent address he declared that it is a solemn duty of churches, as corporate bodies, to undertake without delay any needed repairs or improvements

Movies Show Control Of Brain Over Health

Philadelphia, June 7 (A.P.).—A promising method of using movies to unravel mysteries of the brain's control over health is to be shown at the American Medical Association's annual convention opening here tomorrow.

The pictures are one of the new developments in medicine displayed in the scientific exhibits. They give physicans the opportunity in a few minutes' study to analyze years of a patient's life, much as a poker player penetrates the motives of his opponents by watching their faces and nervous movements.

The pictures were taken during the ptal at Washington, the Government last five years at St. Elizabeths Hosinstitution for the insane. But their application is not confined to insanity.

They record the peculiar facial expressions and movements of patients who later died and whose brains now reveal the reasons for the troubles. The brains are mounted under glass in such a manner that the observer sees vividly the damage that expressed itself in action in life.

By study of the pictures and the brains, physicians can recognize the earmarks of similar troubles in the living, and in some cases take action before it is too late. In other instances medicine now knows no remedy and the movies are simply a new method for scientific study.

The exhibits were developed by Walter Freeman, Md., and Karl H. Langenstrasse, M. D.

One is a case of carbon monoxide poisoning which later developed into insanity. The records indicate good possibilities of saving cases of skull fracture that develop into epilepsy, and they show the difficulties facing the surgeon in attacking brain tumors.

Other cases include adult forms of St. Vitus Dance, paralysis in various forms, unrestrained crying, and the various lesions underlying epileptic convulsions and the devastating effects upon the brain of tuberculosis and syphilis.

The exhibits cover 170 separate demonstrations revealing the progress of medical research within the past year. They are presented by individual investigators, university groups and scientific sections of the association, by public health groups interested in special diseases and by Government departments in the field of health.

The house of delegates of the American Medical Association meet tomorrow, Tuesday and Thursday. It comprises 173 representatives elected by State medical societies. The scientific sessions will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in fifteen sections, where about 300 papers will be presented.

Enemia will be discussed in a clinical session tomorrow afternoon.

$451,000,000 U. S. NOTES ARE CALLED

Indications Now Point That Outlay Hoover Forecast May Not Be Reached.

(Associated Press.)

The Treasury's plan of funding its maturing debt was advanced another step yesterday with an announcement from Secretary Mellon that all 3½ per cent Treasury notes of Series C, 1930-32, have been called for redemption on December 15.

The total of the outstanding notes of this issue, the Secretary said, was $451,000,000 of the original $607,399,650 issued on January 16, 1928.

At the same time the Treasury announced that a total of $818,000,000 to $820,000,000 of the 3½ per cent Treasury bonds offered for public subscription last Monday had been accepted from the $6,325,000,000 subscriptions received.

The bonds, which will be for eighteen years, will provide funds for retiring maturing Treasury certificates and furnish funds needed to operate the Government.

While the Treasury had a deficit of $1,068,675,335 on June 4, indications were that expenditures would not mount to the $4,345,000,000 recently estimated by President Hoover for

4 Killed, 5 Hurt In Highway Crash

West Virginians Victims as Automobile Skids on Wet Road.

Charleston, W. Va., June 7 (A.P.).—Four persons were killed and five others were injured when an automobile skidded on a wet highway near here today and hit a telephone pole.

The dead: Mike Letart, 31, Poca, W. Va., driver of the machine; Mrs. C. S. Martin, 38, and her two children, Virginia Dora, 6, and Wanda, 7 months.

Minnie, 8, another daughter of Mrs. Martin, suffered a fractured skull and her recovery was regarded as doubtful. C. S. Martin, the father, and three other children of the Martin family escaped with minor injuries. Letart, a neighbor of the Martins, was taking them on a Sunday outing at the time of the accident.

NAVY PLANS TO QUIT GUAM FOR ECONOMY

(Associated Press.)

Officials of the Navy Department left President Hoover's Rapidan camp yesterday after telling him their department would be able to save approximately $25,000,000 out of appropriations for this and the next fiscal year.

The President decided to remain at the camp last night and return to the White House early today. Mrs. Hoover and their son Allan remained with him.

Among the items of savings listed by the department for next year was abandonment of the Island of Guam as a military po[illegible].

Naval experts informed the President the island had no value now as a naval base and that all forces except those required by the civil government to maintain order would be withdrawn.

The conference with the Navy chiefs was the fifth of its kind since Congress adjourned. War, Interior, Postoffice and Agriculture Department officials already have conferred with Mr. Hoover. All but the last met with him at his camp.

Most of the savings in the Navy Department, it was said at the camp, have been brought about by a change in fleet operations inaugurated by Admiral Pratt when he became chief of naval operations. A number of battleships have been withdrawn and men who have resigned or have finished their terms of service have not been replaced.

This resulted in the Navy having 4,800 less men this year than last. A number of destroyers also have been tied up.

The Chief Executive's party found the weather warm over the week-end. In spite of the camp's altitude, the sun poured in with unusual heat.

Secretary Adams, who returned to the city last night, arrived at the camp Saturday in an autogiro plane. It was piloted by Assitsant Secretary Ingalls, who, as the Navy's chief of aviation took part in the subsequent conferences.

Appointment Decree For Madariaga Issued

Test Room Fire Threatens Government Printing Plant

Machinery valued at $3,500 was badly damaged yesterday afternoon by fire in a paper testing room on the fifth floor of the new west annex of the Government Printing Office. James H. Saunders, 32, 625 Rock Creek Church road northwest, fireman attached to No. 1 Truck Company, suffered a badly cut left foot when a fragment of plate glass penetrated his boot sole.

Other damage from fire and water was estimated last night by printing office officials at $500. An investigation was carried on early this morning to determine the blaze's cause, believed to have been caused by defective wiring in the damaged machinery. While the fire was confined to a small area, firemen worked more than an hour in clouds of thick, acrid smoke before it was finally extinguished.

The principal machine damaged was an humidifying apparatus being tested at the printing establishment. It was said to belong to a private firm which had installed it on trial. Its function was to create various atmospheric conditions for testing of grades of paper.

Fire Resque Squad, No. 1, gave first aid to Saunders, the injured fireman, and later took him to Emergency Hospital where he was given treatment and discharged.

The blaze was discovered shortly after 4 o'clock, when Hubert B. Mel-

A number of sailors were overcome. One man's clothing caught fire and the hose of his fire-fighting comrades was turned on him.

Capt. J. W. Gregory, of the fire department, Norfolk, had his eyes and face badly scorched and was sent to a hospital.

Capt. W. J. Munroe, Norfolk fireman, was overcome by smoke; W. B. Copeland, fireman, was overcome by smoke and heat. Homer Register, Wilmington, N. C., of the Norfolk Navy Yard, received an injury to the back when the wall of the Bain Peanut Factory fell on him; E. M. Kenley, merchant, was injured by chemicals, and O. J. Ganelick had his arms and face badly burned.

Woman in Crowd Hurt.

Miss Mason, knocked down in the street when guards forced the crowd back from fire lines, suffered a fractured ankle.

The city authorities practically declared martial law in the fire district late tonight, placing it under the direct control of marines and sailors from the navy yard and the naval base.

The fire was making its way toward Commercial place and Water street, three blocks from the scene of the original conflagration.

3 DEAD, SCORE HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Beach, Md. Friends were on their way to that resort late last night to tell her of the tragedy.

Although the Riverdale Fire Rescue Squad was on the scene almost immediately and made all possible speed to the home of Dr. Hays, of Riverdale, the labor editor was pronounced dead on arrival at the home of the physician.

Identified with labor movements since early manhood Mr. Egan became connected with the American Federation of Labor nearly 30 years ago. He was a friend of the late Samuel Gompers, famous labor executive and the warm friend of a host of other labor leaders. Mr. Egan was a printer by trade when a young man and his first labor activities were with the Toledo Chapter of the National Typographical Union.

He was one of the closest associates of Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, and of William Green, president of the federation.

Mr. Egan and his family had resided in Riverdale for more than fourteen years.

A severe case of shock suffered when he was struck by an automobile on the Lee Highway near Park Lane, Va., in Arlington County, proved fatal yesterday to Raymond Roth, 58 years old, of Mason street, Maywood, Va., a short time after he was removed to Georgetown Hospital.

Mr. Roth was struck by an automobile driven by William B. King, of Spring Drive road, Livingston Heights, Va. Mr. King said that, accompanied by his wife, he was driving slowly along the road and was well over to the right-hand side. He said Mr. Roth was on the left-hand side, but that as the automobile approached him, he suddenly started running and ran directly into the car.

Mr. King placed Mr. Roth in his car and drove him to the hospital. Mr. Roth was conscious after the accident, Mr. King said, but lapsed into a coma on the way to the hospital. At the hospital physicians said they found no bruises or external injuries on the man's body, and that shock was the cause of his death.

Arlington County Policemen James Scott and A. D. Langley, who investigated the accident, held it unavoidable.

James W. Atwell, 35 years old, of N street near Thirty-third street northwest, was killed at 5:40 o'clock yesterday morning when the automobile he was driving turned over on Conduit road near Hutchins place northwest. Mr. Atwell was alone at the time of the accident, Seventh Precinct police learned.

The police also learned that shortly after 4 o'clock Atwell obtained the keys of the car from his brother Franklin, living in the same apartment house. Franklin Aawell told police that he warned James that the steering gear was lose.

There were no witnesses to the accident. Police said they were satisfied no other car was involved and that Atwell lost control of the machine. He was taken to Georgetown Hospital in a passing automobile, where he was pronounced dead on arrival by Dr. Benjamin Golden.

Four women and four children were injured yesterday in a head-on collision between two automobiles on the Waldorf pike, 16 miles from the District line.

Mrs. Helen Ferguson, 41 years old, of H street, near Twenty-second street northwest, driver of one of the machines, was the most seriously injured. She was treated at Casualty Hospital for severe lacerations to her head and a fractured rib. Passengers in the same automobile were also treated at Casualty. They are Mrs. Nina Johnson, of Bates street northwest, near North Capitol street, lacerations to the head; William Johnson, 7 years old, cuts and bruises; Francis Johnson, 3, fractured left leg; Catherine Johnson, 5, severe lacerations, and Thomas Ferguson, 7, slight bruises. Two infants, Margaret and Milton Johnson, who were lying on the rear seat, escaped injury.

The accident occurred, it is said, when the Ferguson machine, bound for Washington, was struck head-on by another car. The driver of the other machine fled from the scene following the crash. Occupants of the automobile, Elizabeth Johnson and Lillian Stanfield, both colored, were treated at Casualty for lacerations and bruises. None of the injured are in a serious condition.

Joseph Riccardi, 26, of 38 Seaton place northwest, were seriously injured when he was pinned beneath his automobile which was overturned by a hit-and-run machine 10 miles from Chesapeake Beach, Md. A passenger in Mr. Riccardi's car, William McCabe, escaped injury.

Manassas Council Race Is Enlivened

Special to The Washington Post.

Manassas, Va., June 7.—With election of members of the town council set for Tuesday, what promised to be a cut and dried affair may develop into a lively race for one member of the council at least.

All council members seek reelection. Their names appear on the printed ballot as they filed with the clerk of the court 60 days prior to the election. A group of citizens who planned to place a ticket in the field were chagrined to find that while they talked the legal time for filing had expired, preventing the names of their candidates being printed on the ballot.

Realizing the difficulty of electing a full ticket by writing in the names, citizens have decided to concentrate on the election of one man only. Under their plan, J. E. Bradford, who as chairman of the finance committee is blamed for a town automobile tax and other items of taxation or license, will be opposed by E. R. Conner, merchant and dairyman.

V. P. I. CLASS HEARS BAPTIST SECRETARY

Dr. George Waite Says That Education and Religion Go Hand in Hand.

Blacksburg, Va., June 7 (A.P.).—Education without religion tends to become atheistic humanism, while religion apart from education tends toward superstition, Dr. George T. Waite, executive secretary of the Virginia Baptist Board of Missions and Education, Richmond, said today at the baccalaureate services of Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

The services, held as a part of the fifty-ninth graduation exercises, were attended by the 245 graduates, cadet corps, faculty and guests.

Dr. Waite, in preaching upon "Jesus and Education," said in part: "One can not draw a sharp distinction between the functions of education and religion. Beginning at somewhat different starting points, they work toward a common end. While the sphere of each overlaps that of the others, yet we do recognize them as belonging to somewhat different spheres. It seems to me we might say that education as we commonly think of it has to do more with the facts of life, while religion is concerned with the meaning of those facts. * * *

Concerned With Education.

"An education that fails to recognize religious values is defective, and a religion that is unfriendly to education is a tragedy. True religion is concerned with all that concerns education, and more. The Christian religion can mean no more than the meaning of Jesus, and can contribute no more than His contribution. We therefore undertake to point out some of the contributions which Jesus makes to the larger and more complete life.

"In the first place, Jesus reveals and interprets God. An education that does not take into account God is incomplete. I think one of the chief purposes of Jesus in coming into the world was to give the world a right understanding of God. * * * In the second place, it is from Jesus that we receive our true standard of values. * * * To Him the supreme and ultimate values were spiritual and inhered in personality. He frequently drew attention to the inherent value of man as compared with things and that in comparison with things man excels all other values combined.

Conservation of Values.

"I can not agree that one's education is complete until he learns this truth, for surely all right education finds its highest expression and use in its conservation of personal values. All other values in comparison with these are relatively trivial. They may not indeed be called values at all unless they contribute to the sum total of human good. And here it seems to me lie our most tragic failures. I think it would be very nearly correct to say that man is controlled by his value judgments."

Sufficient motivation for life was given as the third contribution made toward a more complete life. "Man's motive apart from God is selfish. His motive under religion is love expressing itself. Jesus taught us that principle both by precept and example.

"Service may be said to be the keynote of his whole life. He taught the world a new doctrine when He said the way to save a life is to lose it, and history has borne out the truth of that precept. The men who live today in the thought and affection of their fellowmen are those whose lives are motivated by love for God and man. Indeed, the outstanding world leaders of today are living examples of that impressive truth. Business itself is coming to recognize this principle of life."

"Jesus' crowning contribution," Dr. Waite said in concluding, "is to redeem man by properly relating him to God, to his fellowmen, and to Himself. As I understand it, to be lost is to be out of fellowship with the best. The lost man is a man who needs adjustment within his own personality, adjustment in his relations to God, and to his fellowmen. Jesus saves through the introduction of a power that enables him to find his proper readjustment."

CURRENT EVENTS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ROADS TO VIRGINIA SCHOOLS ARE GOOD

Travelers to Ceremonies in State Will Find Some Work Under Way.

Richmond, Va., June 7 (A.P.).—The Virginia department of highways today reported that road conditions in general throughout the State were good, with exception of short dusty sections under construction, and where oiling was in progress.

On the Richmond-Danville road oiling was started the latter part of last week between Richmond and Amelia and was to be continued through the coming week. Through traffic from Richmond to Danville was using several alternate routes. The nearest was through Petersburg, South Hill, Clarksville, South Boston and Halifax, about ten miles longer than the regular route.

Widening was under way at Fredericksburg and just south of Ashland, with another section just outside the city limits of Richmond on U. S. route 1, between Richmond and Washington. Traffic was using the regular paved road without any trouble.

Route 11 Being Widened.

On U. S. 11 through the Shenandoah Valley, widening was under way in four places between Winchester and Staunton. From Staunton to Natural Bridge was in good condition, but between Natural Bridge and Roanoke there was a section of reconstruction where the road was torn up.

Between Roanoke and Bristol there were several short sections of construction at bridges, but the work was on new location except where new and old roads cross.

Nearest route from Richmond to Lexington, where V. M. I. and Washington and Lee final exercises are to be held this week, is through Charlottesville, Waynesboro, route 809 from Waynesboro to Greenville, and route 11 to Lexington, approximately 180 miles. No oiling was in progress, and the only construction was widening work between Richmond and Ashland, which could be avoided by following route 421.

Road to V. P. I. Is Good.

Route from Richmond to Blacksburg, where V. P. I. final exercises were in progress for the week, over No. 13 to Farmville, route 60 to Lynchburg, route 10 to Roanoke, and route 11 to Christiansburg, and over 28 to Blacksburg, was clear of construction and oiling, and was in good condition.

Oiling on Tidewater trail, United States route 17, betwen Saluda and Tappahannock, was to be completed by June 12, and on route 52, between Petersburg and Suffolk, by June 15.

Detour on Highway 60.

On route 17, betwen Gordonsville and Harrisonburg, the construction and unimproved road between Standardsville and the top of the mountain, about 4 miles, was in good condition, but during a rain it was expected to be muddy and slippery, and not advisable for through traffic.

Oiling on route 18, the River road, from Richmond to Columbia, had been completed and was to be started this week on the section between Columbia and Dixie.

Route 41, the Broad street road, between Richmond and Charlottesville, was in good condition. About the middle of the week oiling was expected to be started between Short Pump and Oilville and was to be going on for four days.

On U. S. route 60, between Virginia Beach and Ocean View, construction was under way near Lynnhaven Inlet and traffic was detoured over the Water Works road to the Virginia Beach boulevard, N. S. 17.

TWO FAIRFAX TOWNS TO ELECT OFFICERS

Falls Church Will Select Councilmen and Herndon All Officials.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

Falls Church and Herndon will hold town elections tomorrow, polls opening at sunrise and closing at sunset. All offices at Herndon are to be filled, while at Falls Church three councilmen are to be elected.

In the Falls Church election an attempt has been made to inject a contest between citizens who are fighting for reappointment of two school teachers for next year, and the school board. They point out that members of the school board are appointed by the town council, and as the present members of the school board have refused to reconsider their action in not appointing the teachers for another year, as requested by the majority of the patrons, there should be a change in the personnel of the board.

Persons taking the side of the school board state that this issue should not be considered, inasmuch as a new member of the school board will be appointed in July, before the new councilmen take office in September, and present members of the council would make the appointment, therefore the issue is not material.

Election tomorrow will be held in the Town Hall on Washington street. Councilman W. T. Parrott, from the first ward, is opposed by Benjamin A. Elliott, merchant; Dr. Julius Parmelee, councilman in the second ward, is opposed by Joseph Smith, while Councilman Charles E. Gage, of the third ward, has no opposition.

In the town of Herndon Stanley B. Hanes is seeking election as mayor. The present town clerk, Charles J. Sager, will be opposed by Mrs. Jesse Aud. Town Sergeant and Treasurer Vernon C. Cockerille is unopposed for reelection. Ten persons are candidates for the town council, of which six are to be chosen. They are Ray N. Wrenn, John R. Hurst, William H. Moffett, Ernest Gibson, Julian D. Thompson, Walter H. Wiley, Willis W. McGlincy, Edward E. Gillett, George A. Bready and Silas F. Hutchison. Judges of the Herndon election will be J. W. Burt and George R. Bready, with Guy McGlincy acting as clerk.

Volunteer Fire Department of the town of Falls Church will hold a business meeting this evening in the engine house on Washington street. At last meeting of the Arlington-Fairfax County Firemen's Association it was proposed that all departments in Arlington County organize into one unit. The Falls Church department would be designated as Arlington County Fire Department No. 5.

As the Falls Church department serves both Fairfax and Arlington Countise, and the town is located in both counties, members of the Falls Church department are to decide this evening whether to remain as an independent unit under the Fairfax County plan or to unite with the Arlington County departments. Members of the department will also consider plans for the annual summer carnival in Falls Church.

Herndon Chapter, No. 55, Order of Eastern Star, will meet Wednesday evening in the Masonic Hall at Herndon. Three candidates will be initiated.

Fairfax County authorities, in a series of liquor raids over the weekend, arrested four persons. Late Saturday night they raided the home of Joe Mills on the Alexandria-Leesburg pike near Falls Church, where they found 6 gallons of alleged liquor. Mills and his wife were arrested and charged with possession of rum.

Mills' son, Ralph, was also arrested on a capias issued by Judge Walter T. McCarthy of the Fairfax County Circuit Court. Ralph was convicted at the March term of court for a State prohibition violation and was at liberty under bond for appearance at the May term of court for sentence. He failed to appear and his bond was forfeited.

Mills and his wife were given a hearing yesterday morning before Justice of the Peace John T. Molling of Falls Church, who ordered them held for action of the grand jury at the September term of court, under a $500 bond each. Ralph was placed in the Fairfax County Jail to serve his sentence.

Police raided "the Country Store" at Langley on the Chain Bridge highway, where they arrested Raymond Williams on a liquor charge. A large quantity of alleged rum and paraphernalia was seized. Williams was held for action of the grand jury by Justice of the Peace Carlin C. Cockill, of Colvin Run. Bond was set at $500.

BUSINESS MEN HAIL LIMIT ON PARKING

Alexandria Merchants See Benefits as Result of Council Action.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria, 523.

Action of the city council in ordering enforcement of the ordinance limiting parking on King street to one hour has met with approval of merchants on that street, who heretofore experienced difficulty in deliveries, as in many cases trucks are unable to park in front of or near the stores. They also felt their business was injured because prospective patrons could not find parking space near the stores.

There was a noticeable drop in all-day parking Saturday, employes and owners of stores having, in most instances, parked their cars on side streets.

Signs on electric light poles limiting parking, in place for about five years without any apparent effect on long-time parking, may be renewed and placed differently, since they now are so high they can not readily be seen.

No cars were tagged for overtime parking Saturday, according to Capt. W. W. Campbell, but rigid enforcement of the ordinance will begin this week, probably today. The parking restriction applies betwen 7 a. m. and 7 p. m., on Sundays, as well as on week days.

A survey recently made by the Bureau of Public Roads, which has charge of the construction of the Mount Vernon boulevard, shows that there are 254 shade trees on Washington street between the sidewalk and the curb, from Madison street to Franklin street. With very few exceptions the trees were found to be badly in need of pruning and expert tree surgery, and the work of pruning has been going on steadily for somes time past. Heretofore it has been left to the individual property owner to care for the trees in front of his residence or place of business, with the result that the work has been neglected.

The survey showed ten varieties of trees on Washington street, the majority of them being of a short-lived species which become brittle with age, making them a source of danger in windstorms. It is the plan of the bureau to replace these with better trees, where necessary and desirable, in order to cooperate with the citizens in making Washington street a real part of the memorial highway development.

A large class of candidates will receive degrees to be conferred in the Masonic Temple on Cameron street. H. H. Porter, venerable master of Alexandria Memorial Lodge of Perfection, sponsored the reunion Dr. Robert South Barrett will preside.

Alexandria public schools will close this week, with promotion cards being awarded in all schools Friday. Closing exercises of the George Mason High School will be held Thursday night in the school auditorium, and commencement exercises of the Alexandria High School will be held in the auditorium of that school at 8:15 p. m. Power, of 909 Prince street, will receive the degree of bachelor of law at commencement exercises of Columbus University, at the Mayflower Hotel, Wednesday evening. Charles S. Keegan will receive the degree of bachelor of commercial science from the school of accountancy, Columbus University.

U. S. PRINTING PLANT THREATENED BY FIRE

ton, a guard, saw smoke pouring from the test room. He notified the lieutenant of the guard, Charles R. Croyle. The two attempted to check the flames with emergency extinguishers but intense smoke forced them to abandon their efforts just as firemen arrived.

The fire fighters experienced difficulty in getting at the blaze. Elevator service was lacking to the fifth floor and no window was accessible by extension ladder. It was practically impossible for firemen unequipped with masks to remain near the burning area more than a few moments at a time.

Water seeping through to the fourth floor damaged a considerable amount of paper and threatened to deluge several large roller presses. These were swathed with heavy canvas and it is believed the damage to them was slight. A wooden partition in the test room burned.

Officials last night would not definitely fix the origin of the fire, but believed it was caused by a short circuit. An investigation is planned.

Nine pieces of fire apparatus responded to the alarm. Fire Rescue Squad No. 1 was at the scene and police reserves helped to check the large crowd.

PORTO RICO REVIVES MOVE FOR FREEDOM

In addition to the court decision, there has been the possibility that the city government of San Juan might pass from the control of the party under the new commission form of government recently approved by Gov. Roosevelt. This possibility has also stimulated leaders to prepare for the next campaign with the hope of recapturing control of the island.

In his keynote speech Senator Barcelo denounced American rule in Porto Rico in scathing terms, asserting that imperialism now had reached such a stage as to be a complete denial of the nation's boasted democracy and "more humiliating than the shameless tryranny of the ancient Caesar."

After 33 years of American administration, Senator Barcelo said Porto Rico is bound more than ever to an oppressive colonial system in which American tariffs "forced the island to buy at prices which were convenient to national industry."

"Our people paid $90,000,000," he said, "with their blood, to favor American products, although the American tariff system in Porto Rico favors only foreign capital. Our condition is worse than that of the medieval serfs."

The convention proceedings were broadcast. A crowded theater was decorated with flags of all the American republics except that of the United States.

DOGDOM'S HEROES LIE IN CEMETERY

Canine Distinguished Dead Have Arlington at Dedham, Mass.

Dedham, Mass., June 7 (U.P.).—Dogdom's distinguished dead sleep here in the canine equivalent of Arlington National Cemetery.

On a gentle green slope, streaked with gravel paths, ornamented with flowering shrubs and plants, and shaded by cedars, oaks and pines, are hundreds of neatly kept graves of dogs that died heroically, of dogs that starred on the stage, of dogs that won top honors in their breeds, and of dogs which might be classified as just plain mutts," but which won a master's love.

It is called the Pine Ridge Animal Cemetery. It was established by the late Mrs. Huntington Smith, founder of the Animal Rescue League of Boston, was opened to the public in 1907, and is operated by the league. Caretaker Edward Prescott and two assistants tend the grounds.

Burial Plot for Hen.

Cats and canaries, rabbits and squirrels, parrots and monkeys are buried there. There is even the grave of a hen. But most of the approximately 1,200 graves, covering more than 6 acres, are those of dogs, and in one huge plot are the resting places of fourteen dogs, all of which were owned by one woman.

A 200-foot grape arbor offers a picturesque approach to this model graveyard. In the center of the cemetery is a memorial of granite, shrouded with privet and inscribed: "To the many dogs that have given their lives in the service of man."

Nearby is a weeping willow.

At least three-quarters of the graves have monuments, stones or tablets as elaborate as those to be found in an ordinary cemetery. And many of these granite or marble memorials bear epitaphs, such as:

"She shared in my joys and kissed away my tears."

Tribute to Cat.

On a cat's tombstone one reads: "He was only a cat, but he was human enough to be a great comfort in hours of loneliness and pain."

Quite the most pretentious memorial in the graveyard is a vast stone tomb said to have cost $3,000. Behind the big bronze door of this honeysuckle-covered vault lies the body of Jessie, a dog once owned by the late R. H. White, Boston merchant.

The pets of many prominent persons from various sections of the United States lie in Pine Ridge. A granite stone inscribed "In memory of Master Billy Arliss" marks the grave of a dog which for years was the almost constant companion of George Arliss, the actor.

Letters to Singer Land Boy in Jail

Youth Told Ruth Etting He Wanted to Take Her to Eternity With Him.

Writer of more than 200 fervent letters to Ruth Etting, radio and vaudeville star, Leslie Roy was arraigned on charges of writing threatening letters, and for the second time in less than two years brought before the same magistrate for the same offense.

He admitted authorship of the letters, some of which stated he wanted to take Miss Etting to "Eternity" with him. Roy was held in $500 bail pending trial. About eighteen months ago he was released for the same offense after relatives promised to send him to an institution.

the year. On June 4 the expenditures since last July 1 were $3,890,173,760, and it hardly seemed possible the expenditures for the remainder of the month of June would mount to $454,000,000.

While the Treasury still expects the deficit will be in the neighborhood of $900,000,000, it will require unexpected expenses to send the total disbursements for the year much above $4,000,000,000. At present, indications are that the tax collections for the month will be about $290,000,000, bringing the total collections for the fiscal year to $3,111,000,000, plus approximately $90,000,000 in interest on war debts which debtor nations will pay on June 15 and which can be devoted to the general fund.

No hint has been received from any debtor nations that they would ask postponement of their payments on principal and interest, which this year is $51,000,000 and $184,000,000, respectively.

Right to Postpone.

The nations which owe this Government war debts have the right under the refunding treaties to postpone any payment upon 90 days' notice of intention to do so. The postponement may be for two years.

Representative Ramseyer, of Iowa, a ranking Republican of the last House ways and means committee, said yesterday the United States is "several billion dollars behind" on the debt-paying program laid down by Congress.

In a formal statement he took exception to recent debt observations of Assistant Secretary Ballantine, of the Treasury and Senator Harrison (Democrat), of Mississippi.

The floating debt has been paid off as was intended when the sinking fund provision was enacted in the liberty loan act of 1919, Mr. Ramseyer said, but at that time Congress intended "to retire all of the national debt in 25 years from July 1, 1920."

Declared Not Rapid.

"Due to the foreign debt settlements in reducing or partly cancelling the foreign debts, that portion of the debt has not been reduced as rapidly as 'originally contemplated' by Congress," he continued. "It was also contemplated by Congress that the foreign nations would keep up the interest payments on what they owed us and finally pay off the principals of their debts in full."

"Instead of being seven years ahead in our debt-paying program, as was claimed by Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi," Mr. Ramseyer added, "we are in fact several billion dollars behind."

Mexico Hunts Band Of Gold Smugglers

$2,500,000 Reported Sent to United States in Single Month.

Mexico City, June 7 (A.P.).—Organized smuggling of millions of dollars' worth of Mexican gold out of the country was under investigation today by the attorney general's department.

Instruction had been sent to government representatives at all border points to aid in the investigation and establish a strict vigilance so as to guard against continuation of the activities.

Authorities said they had information leading them to believe the smuggling band has agents at all the principal frontier points. In May alone $2,500,000 in gold pesos was smuggled into the United States, the attorney general said. Since the smuggling has been going on for possibly a year the total sum taken from the country is believed to be enormous.

Tennessee Banker Faces Trial Today

Rogers Caldwell Accused of Breach of Trust in Firm's Failure.

Nashville, Tenn., June 7 (A.P.).—The first trial growing out of the failure of Caldwell & Co., $39,000,000 investment banking house, is scheduled to start in criminal court tomorrow with Rogers Caldwell as defendant. Counsel for the financier has announced that a postponement, denied last week, again will be sought, but State's attorneys said they would resist any effort toward a further delay.

Caldwell is charged with fraudulent breach of trust in connection with the alleged transfer of securities guaranteeing payment of funds belonging to Hardman County, Tenn. The indictment alleges that the collateral placed with the Bank of Tennessee, as trustee, to secure funds left with Caldwell & Co. by the county, was transferred to Caldwell & Co. and securities of less value substituted.

U. S. PLANS TO SELL CAPONE PROPERTIES

Views Action as Strange.

Mr. Neely said he thought it "strange" that Mr. Giblin should be attempting to seize such a large portion of his friend's fortune.

"In any event, the Florida home of Capone is subject to seizure by the Government," Mr. Neely added.

"Scarface Al" spent the week-end in hiding, ready to appear, probably this week, for the start of his criminal trial. Persistent rumors have it that he will plead guilty and accept any verdict the judge metes out, in the belief that Leavenworth Prison, after all, is a much safer place to be in these troublous times of the underworld than the streets of Chicago, where assassins' bullets might put a permanent end to the Capone regime.

Miami, Fla., June 7 (A.P.).—Chief Deputy Sheriff Coleman, of Dade County, said tonight the removal of furnishings from Al Capone's Palm Island residence would be resumed early tomorrow unless orders to the contrary were received.

The Capone Island home was attached late yesterday and part of the furnishings removed, as the result of filing of a suit against Capone by Vincent Giblin, Miami attorney. The suit seeks $50,000, which it alleged is the balance due Mr. Giblin in attorney's fees.

Furniture, Auto Confiscated.

Furniture from the front and rear porches of the residence and an automobile had been confiscated last night, when operations were halted temporarily in expectation of a communication from Capone in Chicago. At the sheriff's office tonight, however, it was said no word had been received.

Mr. Giblin said he had made several requests to Capone to pay the balance he alleged was due him, and added that his last letter had remained unanswered. He did not say what fees had been paid by Capone.

Mr. Giblin and his associate, J. Fritz Gordon, represented Capone in several Dade County courts and in United States District Court here. In the latter they obtained an injunction prohibiting sheriffs of the State from molesting Capone when he came to Miami more than a year ago. The injunction was granted following instructions issued to various officers by Gov. Doyle E. Carlton, to arrest Capone on sight if he attempted to enter the State.

Pantages Lawyers To Ask Dismissal

Defense Will Claim Girl in Juvenile Case Is More Than 21 Years Old.

San Diego, Calif., June 7 (A.P.).—Attorneys for Alexander Pantages, wealthy showman, and the three other defendants in the "girl market" case today indicated they planned to move early this week for a dismissal of the charges.

The prosecution opened last week and presented two witnesses, John P. Mills, real estate broker, formerly a codefendant who pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor, and Lydia Nitto, youthful complaining witness.

Pantages was accused with Jesse H. Shreve, investment banker, and Oliver Clark Day and William Jobelmann, alleged operators of a Hollywood "girl market," of conspiring to bring Miss Nitto to a hotel party here last October and violating the juvenile court law. Defense attorneys said the motion to dismiss might be made at the conclusion of Miss Nitto's cross-examination on a contention that she was more than 21 years old.

They will choose between the candidates of the consolidated national party, commonly called "nacionalistas," and the democratic party of the islands and must make up their minds chiefly from a like or dislike of individuals.

"Outs" Berate "Ins."

The party platforms are almost identical, calling for independence and improvement of the condition of the poor. So personalities are the chief ammunition of the campaigners, the "outs" berating the "ins" and the latter denouncing those who would take their places.

Charges of graft, inefficiency and desire for personal gain rather than public good are fired broadside by both factions.

This campaign of personalities prevailed when members of the parties were striving for places on the tickets, and one of the losers was Senator Juan Sumulong, head of the democrats, who is in Los Angeles, Calif., undergoing treatment for lung trouble. His friends claimed that rivals had forged cablegrams saying he would not seek re-election. On the strength of these messages his party nominated Gregorio Perfecto for the seat.

Selected by Osmena.

Another contest involves the prestige of Sergio Osmena, president of the senate. Pedro Rodriguez, senator from Cebu, had announced he would not run again, and President Osmena selected Manuel Briones, majority floor leader in the house, as the nationalist candidate for the seat.

But Rodriguez then changed his mind, and Osmena came out flatly against him. Observers say that if Rodriguez wins the chances of Osmena for reelection in 1936 will be weakened.

Isauro Gabaldon, former resident commissioner in Washington, is also fighting for his political life. He turned insurgent, and the nationalist leaders are gunning for him.

The general tickets are up for all 89 seats in the house of representatives and 11 of the 22 senatorships. In addition there are rival tickets in every province and municipality, the Manila contest being a three-cornered affair through the advent of a new party which calls itself "radical," but is devoted chiefly to denouncing the two older organizations.

The communists sought to nominate candidates, but the executive bureau barred their names from the tickets.

the other governments of the world."

The communique case as a surprise to a large number of newspapermen awaiting the return of the German statesmen to the Carlton Hotel in London this evening. They had been told the visitors would receive the press on their return from Chequers.

Meeting in Germany Hinted.

Instead, bith of the ministers merely shook hands with the reporters with whom they were personally acquainted and Curtius smiled and said: "I am sure the gentlemen are not waiting for an interview. We have nothing to add to the communique." Both then quickly disappeared in the elevator.

This shift in arrangements is understood to have been made at the specific request of the British office, which is believed to have been pleased with Bruening's interview with the press on his arrival Friday.

The first intimation that the Chequers conference may be followed by anotoher meeting on German soil was given when the visitors expressed gratitude to their host and added, significantly:

"We trust that we may soon return your kindness by your and Mr. Henderson's coming to Germany."

Later today Dr. Curtius spoke briefly to a small group of German correspondents. In order not to offend the British foreign office, which did not wish a formal interview with the international press, he received them in the German Embassy, which is considered German soil.

"Meeting Justified Itself."

From one of those present during the discussion, the Associated Press correspondent learned that the world's economic and political troubles were discussed not only in their special relation to Germany, but also on a broader international basis, especially as affected by the Young plan, armaments, reparations, tariff walls, customs barriers, unemployment and industrial depression.

"There was no hurry," the Associated Press informant said. "There was none of that tense tamosphere often prevailing during international conferences when a specific job must be done within a specific time.

"At Chequers everything was discussed in a spirit of utmost friendship and cordiality. There was give and take on both sides and noangle was untouched. In that way the meeting more than justified itself."

Asked whether anything concrete was likely to result from the conference, he replied: "We feel that the ball has been started rolling on the whole international economic question, especially reparations.

Results Held Pleasing.

"Naturally, England and Germany alone can not solve the problem, but it is important that parties to the Chequers conference went on record before the whole world in urging international cooperation and in promising each other to collaborate closely with the other government's concerned.

"The German delegates seemed disappointed that the British public, judging from the position given to the German visit in newspapers, is more interested in the 'trooping of the colors' yesterday, sports and today's earth tremors, than in the discussions of such fundamental importance as that at Chequers."

Some consolation was found, however, in the fact that at Chequers the interest among the conferees was so keen that discussions continued Saturday night until long after midnight and were resumed at an early hour today.

Germans Well Satisfied.

The German statesmen in private talks emphasized how pleased they were that MacDonald had invited the president of the board of trade, the governor of the Bank of England and Sir Leith Ross, of the British treasury, to yesterday's and today's functions.

"You can make your own deductions from this," the visitors were quoted as saying. "You may rest assured that the discussions were chiefly financial and econmic."

For the first time since their arrival in England last Friday Bruening and Curtius were free to do as they pleased this evening. The chancellor visited a personal friend, while Curtius called on a distant relative.

Tomorrow the German envoys will be received by King George.

PRINCESS USES COPY BOOK 150 YEARS OLD

King George's Granddaughter Presented With Volume on Birthday.

London, June 7 (U.P.).—Little Princess Elizabeth is laboriously scrawling in a copy-book which was once used by a Princess Elizabeth nearly 150 years ago.

An album, containing two copy-books, was used by Princess Elizabeth, daughter of King George III, and her brother, Frederick, Duke of York and Albany. These, by the consent of the Duchess of York, were presented to the present princess by E. A. Barnard, of Cambridge, on the recent occasion of Elizabeth's fifth birthday.

The album was recovered as the result of a broadcast appeal by Barnard some time ago, for the preservation of old documents and papers, which are continually being destroyed by people who have no idea of their historic value.

The specimens, which are beautifully written, presumably with quill pens, on hand-made paper, are typical copy-book quotations, and that of the young Princess Elizabeth reads:

"Fortune takes away nothing but what she gave. But she gives not virtue. Therefore virtue is a good which she can not make away." The princess made a mistake in writing "make" for "take." This was written in 1783.

The Duke of York's specimen is also very nicely done, and in his case is signed Frederick, "April 12, 1771." It reads:

"True honour is the bright sun which warms and nourishes noble souls to noble actions. It elevates our thoughts, dignifies our lives and points every deed towards heaven, the places of its birth."

Both sheets, together with an engraving of the princess, are mounted in an album which is enclosed in a vellum portfolio.

Coolidge Advises Vacation; His Will Last Two Months

Former President Will Slough Burden of Newspaper Writing July 1 for "Relaxation and Refreshment;" Not to Resume Until September.

New York, June 7 (U.P.).—Former President Calvin Coolidge will start his vacation from newspaper writing July 1, and will follow the thought expressed recently in one of his daily syndicated articles that "the brains of the country need relaxation and refreshment more than ever this season, by extending his rest into September.

The syndicate which distributes his daily articles announced the former President will discontinue his writing during the two months or more of his vacation.

The place and manner in which Coolidge will spend his vacation were not made known, and it is unlikely that they will be.

In a recent article the former President wrote:

"The brains of the country need relaxation and refreshment more than ever this season. They owe a duty to themselves, their business and their associates to get more than the usual period of rest.

"The country will be further advanced in October if July and August find many visitors at the shore and in the hills. Just now we need that replenishment of body and soul that comes only in withdrawing from work and familiar scenes and seeking diversion in new activities and new surroundings. This year above most others the brain and the hand need to be replenished by rest."

July 1, the start of his vacation, will be the anniversary of Coolidge's entrance in the writing field. His editors say that year was marked by his promptness; he never was late with his copy and he never exceeded the number of words agreed upon.

present to protect the defendant's rights, where the evidence could be taken down with guaranties of accuracy, and the abuses of the "third degree" obviated. It added, however, that this would require general constitutional amendments.

The grand jury system was criticized as uneconomic and in most cases unnecessary.

"Today, the grand jury is useful only as a general investigating body for inquiring into the conduct of public officers and in case of large conspiracies," the report said. "It should be retained as an occasional instrument for such purposes, and the requirement of it as a necessary basis of all prosecutions for infamous crimes should be done away with."

Frank Clark to Seek Return to Congress

(Associated Press.)

Frank Clark, of Florida, yesterday announced he would attempt to reenter the House of Representatives, from which he retired in 1925 after twenty years incumbency in an unsuccessful attempt to gain a Senate seat.

Clark, who was formerly elected from the Second District, said he would seek election in 1932 as representative-at-large, since the Legislature failed to create a district for the additional member of Congress given the State by reapportionment. The former representative is an attorney and served on the Tariff Commission after his Senate race.

Homes Will Be Studied At Detroit Conference

(Associated Press.)

The American home as the developer of individual and family characteristics was announced yesterday as the general topic of the twenty-fourth convention of the American Home Economics Association in Detroit, June 22 to 27.

Related subjects to be discussed include housing problems, cost of medical care, home atmosphere, food costs and art in home furnishings. The White House Conference on Child Health and Protection and President Hoover's forthcoming conference on home building and home ownership will be given special emphasis in convention deliberations.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, June 7 (A.P.).—New municipal and State financing scheduled for award this week totals only $22,189,989 and represents the end of 64 communities, the bond buyer reports. The figure compares with $34,449,316 last week and the weekly average of $40,076,810 for the year to date. Among the awards scheduled are $4,000,000 Vetterans Welfare Bonds and $202,000 State Park Bonds by the State of California on Thursday. The city of Paterson, N. J., is offering $1,000,000 tax revenue obligations on the same day.

National Steel Corporation has started rebuilding a 10-inch strip mill at its Weirton, W. Va., plant, with a capacity of 10,000 tons a month, into a combination mill. It will be able to roll 7,000 to 8,000 tons a month of small merchant bars of ¼ to 1¾ inch size, small angles and shapes, without affecting its efficiency for rolling strip. The mill will start rilling again July 1.

Drastic price declines last month resulted in an increase from 8.58 per cent to 9.71 per cent in the average yield on active cash dividend paying common stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, the monthly analysis by Mood's shows. The 9.71 per cent yield as of June 1, compared with 8.08 per cent on Nov. 13, 1929, and 9.50 per cent at the middle of last December.

Sound of Heart Beats To Be Heard by Radio

New York, June 7 (U.P.).—The sound of heart beats, and their variation under exercise, will be broadcast over a national chain of radio stations Thursday afternoon from the American Medical Association convention in Philadelphia, the National Broadcasting Co. announced today.

The faint sounds will be increased in volume through use of a specially designed amplifying stethoscope. The patient whose heart beats are to be recorded will first sit quietly and then will be put through a series of increasingly vigorous exercises.

Dedication of Christianity To Growth, Change, Advised

Divorce Question Not Before Conference Is Subject of Discussion by Leaders of Northern Baptist Church With Divided Opinions.

Kansas City, June 7 (A. P.).—A picture of a world surveying "Ashes of the World War," of a "changing world whose gloom has compelled the Christian church to search for her strength," was presented the Northern Baptist Convention here today.

With business matters side-tracked for the Sabbath, the convention listened to missionary speakers from many lands in the afternoon, and to a sermon by Dr. D. J. Evans, Rochester, N. Y., in the evening.

Dr. Evans, who told of the gloom, declared: "Our times indicate the changing world. We are immersed in the atmosphere of change, and Christianity, never essentially a static religion, can be dedicated to the proposition of growth and change."

The divorce question, which has not been presented officially to the 6,000 delegates, nevertheless is occupying attention of convention leaders.

Mattison B. Jones, Glendale, Calif., lawyer, elected Friday to the presidency of the organization, said: "The American home, with its ideals and the sanctity we have given it, will be seriously menaced if the present trend of laxity in divorce laws is continued another decade as it has been in the last two.

"These new laws in Nevada, which mean that divorces can be ground out in two or three minutes after six weeks' residence make divorces become utterly without meaning."

Dr. James W. Brougher, Boston, former president of the convention and a minister, said nine out of ten Baptist ministers, although deploring divorce, were sympathetic.

Dr. Brougher, commenting on the ministerial attitude, said the clergy, confronted by the individual case, would say: "If you have to do it, go ahead."

Coney Island Goes Elite; Seeks Society Patronage

Former Members of Newport and Atlantic City Colonies Find Relaxation Amid Democratic Surrounding as Result of Business Slump.

New York, June 7 (A.P.).—Coney Island, playground of the people, meeting place of the masses, in the midst of a business slump has turned a business eye to the socially elect.

With classes in esthetic dancing and ballrooms in which cover charges are not even mentioned, in the midst of its glittering setting, the "island" is attempting—and fairly well succeeding—to crash "society."

Near beer and pink lemonade—enough to float the Atlantic fleet—still pass daily over the bars, lunch stands and cafe tables, but much of it is being sold to men, women and children who know their Newport, Atlantic City and the mountains. Coney's new customers are learning to find rest and relaxation in democratic style.

"It's that way all around the place," said Rex D. Billings, general manager of one of the largest of Coney's parks. "And what a difference the depression has made in the kind of crowds we are getting"

Billings, former officers and a director of the National Amusement Park Association, is an experienced showman who understands sightseer psychology and believes big playlands an important factor in dispelling economic as well as mental slumps.

His theory is "the better the show, the better the type of audiences." It is working out in dollars at the gates, he declared, and edusating Americans, as shown in greater tourist business, to forget their troubles.

"Coney's crowds are behaving better, too," he asserted. In police records the number of daily arrests is decreasing, but lost children continue to be a vexatious problem.

Headline vaudeville acts are taking the place of "hoochee coochee" shows; snake charmers must have some real charm themselves to hold the throngs and, an old timer on Surf avenue said, even the "red-hots" are hotter.

The closing for the summer of scores of Broadway shows, a theatrical manager at Coney said, has given the amusement parks an unusual number of recognized artists, not only for stage performances, but as ticket-takers, barkers, hula dancers and odd-jobbers.

AMERICAN CAPITAL ABROAD.

The so-called migration of American capital is again causing a stir. Since Canada has raised its tariff there seems to be a fear in loyal Democratic breasts that American industry will move across the border to take advantage of the situation. It is their purpose, of course, to show that the iniquitous Republican tariff is driving industry abroad and leaving American labor strangled.

Americans have invested vast sums in Canada and other foreign countries. A survey by the Department of Commerce revealed that there were 524 American manufacturing branches or subsidiaries in Canada in 1929, representing an investment of $540,000,000. Investment of money on the other side of the border shows signs of increasing, and will probably continue to do so. But no one who views the movement from a broad economic viewpoint will be alarmed at its progress.

Canada is a more convenient outlet for American enterprise, but aside from that there is no essential difference between the migration of capital there and to other foreign fields. The United States has invested about $15,000,000,000 abroad, one-tenth of which is devoted to manufacturing industries. This is quite natural, for this country has become the world's principal financier. A large excess of exports over imports leaves the United States with an enormous balance of trade. In addition to this most European nations owe money to Americans, and pay large sums in interest. What is more natural than that part of this large inflow of capital should be sent abroad for reinvestment?

There would be good reason to oppose this movement if it should take jobs away from American working men. The critics assume that if this capital did not migrate abroad that it would be invested in the United States, thus creating more employment and more business. But the survey of the Department of Commerce proved that assumption to be without foundation.

Where tariffs, national prejudices, labor costs or other factors make it impossible to manufacture in this country for foreign markets, the only means Americans have of reaching such markets is through establishment of branches abroad. In such cases the United States unquestionably reaps a benefit from branch factories because the profits flow back into this country in the form of stock dividends. American labor is not injured, for it could not be utilized in this type of project under any circumstances. Foreign countries are developed, their buying power is increased, and they should have more money to purchase goods which can be profitably exported from America.

Regardless of what may be said, however, as to the merits of foreign branch factories, it is certain that the migration of capital can not be distorted into an argument against the American tariff. Great industries remain in this country, where they can and do pay high wages and high prices for raw materials because of the protection they are given against foreign competitors who operate on lower standards. Take away tariff protection, and industry would seek the place where it could operate the cheapest. Great factories would move to regions of cheap materials and labor to ship goods into the American market. But before they could begin operating the bottom would fall out of the richest market in the world, for this market is sustained chiefly by the high income of working men.

It is foolish to suppose that the United States could go on accumulating capital without reinvesting a portion of it in other countries. Exceptional opportunities for the development of other countries will attract American capital, to the advantage of all concerned. But the great bulk of American capital will remain in the United States, where the greatest and richest market is to be found.

The protective tariff must always be on guard against the treachery of American capitalists who operate abroad on cheap wage scales and then try to smuggle the product into the United States to compete with home industry. In the hearings on the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill it was demonstrated that much of the ostensible foreign pressure for low tariff rates was inspired by American capitalists who were operating plants abroad. This attempt to compete with high-paid American labor in the American market is stealthy and treasonable, and all parties in the United States should cooperate to frustrate it.

When American capital goes abroad on an honest mission it does good work. When it sneaks abroad to exploit cheap labor and then demands a low American tariff so that it can send cheap-labor goods here, every individual involved in the transaction should be exposed by name, so that America shall know the identity of its industrial traitors.

NAVAL ECONOMY.

In some quarters it is taken for granted that the administration will win its point in abolishing useless Army posts, and that this week-end's conference with naval authorities will result in the dismantling of useless navy yards. The extra necessity for practicing economy and the obvious extravagance of maintaining useless posts and navy yards are expected to make such an impression upon Congress that it will gladly apply the pruning knife.

There is no doubting the validity of the proposal to scrap useless service stations of all kinds. The weight of the argument is all on the side of economy. But the administration is likely to go astray if it adds up a lot of useless posts and navy yards and counts them as already scrapped. No estimate of saving on this score should be made before the appropriation bills actually reveal such savings.

A majority in Congress may be willing to scrap a superfluous Army post or a useless navy yard, but the minority directly concerned will prove to be decidedly unwilling. The majority will not be active for economy's sake, but the minority will be exceedingly active for politics' sake. Minorities of this sort are sometimes swollen into strategic majorities on crucial votes. Several administrations have tried to scrap the Charlestown Navy Yard, which never should have been established and which is almost entirely useless, but that yard remains in commission yet. Many a gesture of annihilation has been made against Mare Island Navy Yard, which lies 30 miles inland beyond reach of battleships, but Mare Island is a flourishing yard to this day. California is willing to have another navy yard on San Francisco Bay, but it is not willing to abandon Mare Island.

The effort to cut down naval appropriations is not likely to yield important results. The naval establishment is already operating under reduced appropriations. Increase of the Navy has been postponed. Instead of further postponement of construction, the Navy should be built up to the treaty level. That would be true economy, because it would provide work badly needed at this time, and sooner or later the work must be done. A plan to economize at the expense of national security can not be in President Hoover's mind. It would reassure the public, however, if he would make it very plain that the United States Navy will never, with his consent, have its strength diminished or its efficiency impaired. Any economies that he can effect by pruning naval administration would then be regarded as steps in the right direction by citizens who are now a little fearful that economy, rather than secure national defense, is a paramount administration objective.

CITIZENSHIP REQUIREMENTS.

Numerous problems of citizenship have been brought to the fore by the recent decision of the Supreme Court that those who are unwilling to bear arms in defense of their country can not become citizens. Justice Sutherland's clear-cut and forceful opinion still rings throughout the country. It carries with it a new sense of the responsibilities that go hand in hand with citizenship. A logical result of this firm stand by the supreme tribunal would be a tightening up of the requirements for citizenship.

R. C. White, Assistant Secretary of Labor, is convinced that the naturalization laws are too lax. Looking back over many years of experience in this field, he states that the United States has been conferring the privileges of citizenship heedlessly and carelessly. For every applicant who is debarred there must be hundreds who become citizens without understanding the nature of the obligations they undertake. No doubt many perjure themselves on the question as to whether they are attached to the principles of the Constitution. Some doubtless know almost nothing of that document, of how the Government functions, or of American traditions.

For a long time the Department of Labor has been trying to raise the educational requirements for naturalization. At present the applicant may be admitted if he can sign his name in any language, and if he can speak English. In some cases the ability to say "yes" and "no" has been construed as sufficient qualification in this respect. The department has asked Congress to amend this part of the law so that citizenship shall not be granted unless the applicant can speak and read English intelligently and have an understanding of the Government equal to that of a 14-year-old school child. The amendment should be made.

A few years ago citizenship was urged upon aliens. The situation is now changed. It is no longer necessary to fill up the land. Unless an alien is really attached to the principles of American Government and is interested in taking part in the civic life of his community he is a drag rather than a help. Gangsters who wish to remain in the United States and continue their depredations against the public often seek citizenship to avoid deportation. By no local twist of the law should it be possible to make citizens of this foreign scum.

Americanization is excellent when it is designed to give aliens a background of tradition, history, political science and language to prepare them for citizenship. But when it merely serves to help unassimilable aliens slip through the naturalization process by trick or camouflage it is despicable. The alien problem can not be solved by giving them all certificates of naturalization. While the Government is tightening up on the admission of aliens and some of the States are moving toward compulsory registration for all unnaturalized foreigners, it would be well to tighten up on the requirements for citizenship.

AMERICANS IN FRANCE.

The party of 25 mayors of American cities touring France has both received and given some novel impressions. The visitors disturbed many staid and bewhiskered city fathers of France, not by the abstemiousness of members of the party, but rather by their vivacity. Bubbling good humor, even hilarious enjoyment, was manifest on all occasions. M. le Maire is a formal person who takes his office seriously, and he could not be quite sure whether the spirit of merriment on the part of the Americans was a habitual mood or seasoned by a dash of satire leveled at himself or his well-kept municipality.

Solemnity among the French is not confined to mayors and other public officials. Le Maire, with his tricolor sash and conscious dignity, is but slightly more restrained in demeanor than all Frenchmen of mature years in whom joyousness in public is not understood and could scarcely be tolerated.

The American mayors restrained their hilarity upon certain speechmaking occasions, and even trained themselves to sip toasts with solemn ceremony, in response to rather monotonous official tributes to their country. In Lille and two other towns with Communist mayors the visitors were snubbed and denied official reception, not because they were too jovial, but because Massachusetts executed Sacco and Vanzetti.

Americans shocked some Frenchmen as they sang rollicking songs on the way to war, and amazed them again when, still joking, they went over the top. But, while the irrepressible jocularity of Americans has often surprised or even dismayed the natives, it is yet to be recorded that the doughboy, the tourist, or the American mayor is unwelcome in France.

The Democrats of Arizona have found the tariff so pernicious that they want some more of it for copper.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., June 6.—This month will turn out into the world many thousands of young men and young women with college diplomas. On the whole they are probably better equipped to meet the problems of life than were their predecessors. They have been required to do a large amount of intellectual work. The courses of study pursued in order to secure a degree are a little more difficult and exacting than those of former years. They could not have been graduated without subjecting themselves to a great deal of severe mental discipline.

While they will have a little better chance in the world than others they will not have the only chance. They will not be judged by their diplomas but by what they produce. As the years pass some of them will discover that they put too much emphasis in their student days on how to get a living and not enough on how to live. Even if they do not appear so successful in the competition for gain, those who have a background of liberal culture have a satisfaction that wealth cannot buy. One great benefit of a college education is a better appreciation of the real values of life. CALVIN COOLIDGE.

WOMEN IN POLITICS

From the Christian Science Monitor.

No woman has ever sat in the President's Cabinet, though one or two posts in that group seem eminently fit for feminine occupancy. Moreover, since the august Supreme Court has ruled that no woman unwilling to bear arms and fight in defense of the Nation shall be granted citizenship, it would seem that even the post of Secretary of War should be open to her.

The spokesmen of the Woman's Party are aroused over this situation. Many who earnestly supported woman suffrage are disappointed by it. Is the virtual exclusion of women from positions of political leadership due to their incapacity to fill them, or to the selfishness of men in power, who have the politicians' feeling that there are not enough jobs to go round anyway? The latter is probably the controlling reason.

Such incapacity as exists is, rather, an incapacity to fight for and win recognition than any inability to perform the duties of any offices won. The sex has not yet fully grasped the fact that in politics nothing comes from courtesy, and mighty little through favor. Offices have seldom sought the man, and they are not likely to go seeking the woman.

Courtesy has secured for women posts on the national committees of both old parties, but how much influence do they exert there? Courtesy wins a congressional seat for the widow of a representative and, if she has ability, she is permitted to retain it. But if women in politics want more than this, they must prove their ability as organizers and back up their specific demands by showing that they have enrolled voting strength back of them.

No Sign of Overproduction.

Germany would have been glad to exchange her latest tax shakedown for England's earthquake.

Former Forester Pinchot has been practicing a presidential stride for a long time, but it is still a lumbering gait.

Florida is to have a Congressman at large. This is unfair. Each State should confine and be responsible for its representatives.

Chivalresque Senator Borah, always quick to champion the under dog, does not overlook the dachshund's predicament.

Probably the most serious result of the earthquake in England will be the inevitable eruption of witticisms as to whether it was due to an international explosion at Chequers.

Germany's latest decrees increase taxes on incomes of $800 a year. That should muffle some American howls.

The literary exchange in Rome is becoming as voluminous as the preliminaries of a heavyweight championship and may be no more ominous.

Working on schemes to double the price of silver and perfect perpetual motion may be the best way to keep some people harmlessly employed.

Secretary Adams appeared at the Rapidan conference with an autogiro apparently prepared to make a quick getaway if his Naval economy contribution of $25,000,000 in two years was not acceptable.

If a miracle ever deposits Jouey Shouse in an executive position he will have the surprise of his life when he discovers that it can not be operated by vituperative attacks.

Canton, China's ginger pot, breeds revolutions. Sun Yat-Sen, first president, started there. Chiang Kai-Shek, the present president, started there and now Chiang is on his way south to suppress Sun Fu, son of Sun Yat-Sen, in the same old place. Keep this straight.

A British expert attributes England's plight to the "great drop in her exports." How is that possible in a free trade country with no "tariff barriers" to keep out imports?

Col. Stimson will go first to Italy on his projected swing around Europe. By the time he gets Mussolini and the Pope to kiss and make up he may have to postpone the troubles of Germany, France and England while he comes home to attend to Nicaragua again.

Two ocean fliers at Roosevelt Field were warned that the fog was so thick they wouldn't be able to see plain even in a seaplane. Such diction deserves punishment.

The inventors will save us from overproduction yet. They are working to make chemicals out of wheat, silk dresses from cotton and rubber houses for earthquake districts that will just shimmy in a shake.

We fear Secretary Stimson will find the only subjects Europeans are interested in are war debts and tariffs and the only "American" they understand is "reductions."

The Democratic committee reports collections for three months totaling $41,721, of which Mr. Raskob loaned $40,000. At the rate of $1,721 per quarter that $6,000,000 will be about ready for the campaign of 2932.

Would You Prefer Ten Rich Customers or a Thousand Prosperous Ones?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MANY noted financiers, who should know what they are talking about, assure us that wages must be lowered to hasten the return of prosperity.

What do you think of their argument?

It is conceded that bad times continue because six million men are jobless and unable to spend money. Their wages have been cut 100 per cent.

Can we hasten the return of good times by doing the thing that causes bad times?

Those six million men employed at five dollars a day, would earn and spend nine billion dollars a year. For want of that expenditure times are dull.

Suppose there are thirty million people still employed. Reducing their wages an average of one dollar a day would cut their buying power nine billion dollars a year.

If times are hard because the public's buying power has been reduced nine billion dollars, what reason is there to believe that good times will return if that buying power is reduced another nine billion?

The figures aren't exact, but they will serve.

Now consider another matter.

The income from business is divided two ways. Part of it goes to capital; part of it to labor. Part of it is wages; part of it dividends.

When less is distributed as wages, there will be more to distribute among stockholders.

The argument is that wages should come down because commodity prices have come down and thus lessened profits; but the hope behind the argument is that wages will come down in order to keep dividends up.

Will that arrangement make prosperity?

Consider what it means. Those who live on dividends are thousands; those who live on wages are millions. If those who live on dividends are prosperous, they buy only a few thousand automobiles, radios, electric refrigerators, washing machines, vacuum cleaners. But if those who live on wages are prosperous, they buy these things by the million.

That is the vital difference. No matter how rich the rich are, they buy comparatively little. But when the millions are prosperous, they buy much to keep the wheels turning to make profits to distribute as dividends.

Cut wages below a certain figure and every cent will be spent for bread and meat.

The consumers who provide a market for manufacturers are the millions of wage earners. Take away their buying power and there will be no dividends.

The Canadian Tariff Boost.

Minneapolis Journal.

Dominion Premier Bennett's budget message proclaims increases in Canadian tariff rates against some 200 American products. Here in the Northwest critics of the present Washington administration, and of the Hawley-Smoot tariff revision, are now professing to see in this new Canadian rate boost a further penalty imposed upon the United States in punishment for our own tariff policy. The Canadian administration, however, makes it clear that the boost is not punitive, but a deliberate attempt to force more and more American industrial corporations to establish branch plants north of the boundary. Last September's rate hike, which was frankly retaliatory, had this result, and Canada evidently wants more of the same.

Let us assume, however, that both Canadian rate raises can be attributed to the Hawley-Smoot tariff increase of 1930, that both are retaliatory, brought about by Canadian dissatisfaction with the Hawley-Smoot schedules. Against what Hawley-Smoot rates is this present Dominion tariff policy a retaliation? Obviously, the American tariff rates that irk Canada are the rates on agricultural products, the rates on milk and cream, butter and butter fat, wheat and potatoes, live stock and other products in which the American Northwest is particularly interested.

Northwestern senators and representatives who opposed final passage of the Hawley-Smoot act did not complain, and have not since complained, that its rates on milk and cream, butter and butter fat, wheat and potatoes were too high. They can not consistently, then, cite Canadian retaliation as one of the bitter fruits of a policy which they themselves opposed. Rather is Canadian retaliation against an American policy which they themselves—and rightly—supported, namely, the policy of giving adequate tariff protection to the products of the farms of the Northwest.

The Bishop Cannon Puzzle.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

Bishop James Cannon has now brought a libel suit against Representative Tinkham because, about a year ago, Mr. Tinkham charged that the bishop misappropriated nearly $50,000 of a political campaign fund. It is well that he has at last decided to take the matter to court, where he will have a chance to refute the Tinkham accusation.

But why has he so long refused to refute the accusation before the Senate committee which has been trying to examine him on the subject? The Courier-Journal, no doubt in common with many other newspapers of the country, has just received several thousand words of argument by the bishop against the authority of the Nye Senate committee to inquire into his disposition of this money which he received to finance his campaign against Al Smith in 1928.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

One Per Cent Tax on Stock Sales Would Help Some, Says Mr. Degman.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We see a good many articles in the papers these days about the Government's financial difficulties. It seems that there is a shortage developing in our Uncle Samuel's tax returns.

I have often wondered why the members of Congress, when they sat down around the committee tables to devise ways and means to raise revenue for the running of the Government, overlooked one of the most fertile spots for easy money.

During the year 1930 in the United States there was sold more than 1,250,000,000 shares of stock, valued at, let us say, $100 per share. Now if the Government would impose a tax of 1 per cent on each and every dollar of these transactions, what would be the result? You might say that the first result would be to cripple the business. Granted, it would drive the stock gamblers out of business, and that would cut the business to possibly one-half. I don't think it would be that severe. But even then there would remain a business of $62,500,000,000, and a 1 per cent tax on that amount would bring into the Government coffers the neat little sum of $625,000,000.

If the Government had that amount available now, I believe that Mr. Mellon would have been able to manage without resorting to a bond issue to start the wheels of industry humming.

The Government puts a 10 per cent tax on theater, baseball and other tickets, so why not place at least 1 per cent tax on all stock sales? What is sauce for the sport should be sauce for the speculator or investor.

Pacifist Clergymen Enjoy Safety and Privileges Bought With Brave American Blood.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Gen. MacArthur says that the pronouncement of pacifist clergymen "in effect proclaimed their willingness to see the Nation perish rather than participate in its defense." It is that attitude that the Supreme Court passed upon recently in refusing citizenship to Dr. MacIntosh. Shame, shame on any man born under the Stars and Stripes and enjoying the privileges vouchsafed to him under the Constitution who refuses to defend them, his own fireside included, or raise his hand to protect what he ought to hold dearer than life itself!

What we have has been purchased at too great a price to be given freely to those who do not value it sufficiently to defend it. Should we be attacked, some must bear arms. When they do, and peace is restored, these same men, having avoided the danger which others suffered, will continue in the enjoyment of what they were willing to sacrifice rather than defend. A manhood citizenship is a Christian citizenship, and if these men care to hold what they have let them get a new orientation from a new reading of the Constitution.

ARTHUR GIBSON MORSE.

Showdown Coming on Taxation, to Pay for Extravagance of Congress.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is much more popular as well as "more blessed to give than receive," especially if one can give away other people's money. Such seems to be the attitude of many of our leading congressional statesmen (?) who were so recklessly generous with the Nation's money in their last session. What cared they where the money came from so long as they could pose as generous friends of the needy or the thriftless?

But now that the practical Mr. Mellon suggests some added taxation in order to meet their extravagance, they are quite horrified. They don't seem to have a single suggestion as to how to meet the impressive deficit which they so enthusiastically created, nor have we heard anything along that line from the American Legion, only they are, as always before, quite sure that Mr. Mellon is wrong!

Of course they realize that an increase of taxes for all must uncover the fact, quite patent to many all along, that if the gallant legislators indulge in any financial dances it is the people, not the politician, who must pay the fiddler.

So, Republican or Democrat, what are they going to do about it? It's going to be a great show-down!

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

DAVID BELASCO.

'Tis strange that I should miss him so
Who never shook his hand,
A friend I was not given to know
Or come to understand.
I never at his table sat
To talk of play and star.
His was a gentle genius that
I looked on from afar.

And now for him the curtain's down—
The play called "Life" is o'er,
And where he fashioned his renown
Belasco works no more.
Never again with magic touch
And insight sure and keen;
With little things which meant so much
His hand will deck the scene.

Some say we can not mourn as friend
For one we never knew,
But for our joys we all depend
On something others do.
And who with genius gives to me
An added hour of cheer,
Although his face I may not see,
Is one whom I revere.

What if it was his work alone
To which my love I gave,
For that my little flower is thrown
With thousands on his grave.
Deep draughts of joy from him I drew,
Which never more can be,
And so, although he never knew,
He was a friend to me.

ARMY CHIEF IN CHINA DENIES HE WILL QUIT

Chiang Kai Shek to Continue Drive on Bandits and Communists.

Nanking (Monday), June 8 (A.P.).—Chiang Kai Shek, generalissimo of the Nationalist government, today sended all rumors that he was planning to retire immediately as a result of attacks against his administration from insurgents in southern China.

In a statement to officers and men of China's Nationalist revolutionary armies, the general termed himself their comrade, appealed for their unreserved loyalty and announced he was leaving immediately to head the government military drive in Kiangsai and Hunan Provinces against Communists and bandits. This reign of lawlessness, he said, is "the worst menace now threatening China."

Chiang said he would end the brigands' rule by terror in the Yangtse Valley or "I shall die in the attempt." Then referring to rumors he intended to resign, he added that if he were successful in crushing the lawlessness, "I will retire to my birthplace near Ningpo, thereby proving to the world and nation I have no ambition to establish a dictatorship nor another dynasty, as charged by my reactionary enemies."

Chiang referred only in veiled terms to the present Canton crisis, merely warning soldiers he desired them to refrain from participating in civil wars "such as reactionary elements repeatedly seek to instigate."

The generalissimo attempted to reassure his legions concerning the government's reported intention of engaging in wholesale troop disbandment, thereby leaving thousands of soldiers without means of support. He branded those who spread reports as "lacking common sense and patriotism."

"Our armies are not unjustifiably large," he continued, "with a firmer political administration and increased resources there would be no necessity of curtailing our military expenditures, instead they will be increased. What China should be anxious about now is not poverty but civil disturbance, not financial stringency but national dissension."

2 Socialists Dead In Rows With Reds

Several Persons Wounded in Clashes at Session of Hitler Party.

Chemnitz, Germany, June 7 (A.P.).—Two "Nazis" (National Socialists) were fatally wounded and a number of persons were injured in frequent clashes with Communists during the National Socialist party's two-day meeting here.

Some 35,000 members of the organization, including Adolf Hitler, its leader, attended the meeting. Prince August Wilhelm, son of the former kaiser, also was present.

Police opened fire against the Communists, trying to escape over roofs and fences, wounding seven of them. They finally shut off the entire district and arrested 70 of the disturbers.

Today's disorders started when 80 Communists stoned a group of Nazis and dragged one of them into a store. Other members of the party came to his rescue and invaded the building from which the Communists started shooting.

Reported Ouster Of Catholic Denied

Archbishop Not Forced to Leave Lithuania, Officials Say.

Vatican City, June 7 (A.P.).—The reported "expulsion" of Archbishop Bartholoni, papal nuncio to Lithuania, from that country was described as inaccurate at the Vatican today. It was said that he was "invited to leave the country" and at the same time was recalled by the Vatican.

Church officials insist that international law requires that Lithuanian authorities answer the Vatican's demand for reasons why Bartholoni is termed persona non grata.

A report to Berlin yesterday said the archbishop had been required to leave the country within 24 hours or be removed forcibly. He was said to have left after having incurred the disfavor of the government for alleged interference in cultural affairs.

Minister Raps Rum Sale by Government in Talk to W. C. T. U.

Toronto, June 7 (A.P.).—The Women's Christian Temperance Union was told today by the Rev. A. J. Irwin that Canada is becoming a nation of drinkers as a result of government sale of liquor.

Dr. Irwin, acting secretary of the Canadian Temperance Federation, cited statistics of increased liquor consumption and declared increased crime and drinking among the youth of Canada have followed in the wake of government liquor sale.

Prohibition in the United States was extolled by Ralph O. Brewster, former Governor of Maine, and the Bratt system in vogue in Sweden was condemned by Miss Maria Sandstrom, of Stockholm.

CHURCH TRUCE HOPE IS REVIVED IN ITALY

City and throughout Italy where his holiness had been encouraging the spending of many millions and where the erection of nearly 2,000 other buildings was intended soon.

The pontiff discussed this great building program with Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago when the latter visited the Vatican recently. The Pope announced he believed building to be one of the best remedies for world unemployment, which also is severe in Italy, and, through Cardinal Mundelein, encouraged similar work throughout the Catholic world.

Work which already has been begun, it was said, will be completed, but the plans may be abbreviated.

The present feeling of optimism does not mean that the crisis is over. It was apparent, however, that a good deal has been done toward solution.

Pope Pius told 200 little boys and girls to whom he gave their first communion today to "tell your parents that the Pope is well, but that he is afflicted with tribulations. Ask them to pray for the accomplishment of our wishes."

The pontiff gave his entire day to a consideration of the problem. For the first time in many months he canceled his daily automobile ride in the Vatican City grounds. He remained in his study nearly the whole day, conferring with department officials. He had a long talk with Secretary of State Cardinal Pacelli this morning and later with Papal Nuncio Borgonini-Duca.

Afterward Cardinal Pacelli discussed the situation with Papal Nuncio Pizzardo, secretary of state for extraordinary affairs, and with the Pope's vicar general, Cardinal Marchetti Salvaggiani. During the afternoon and evening the Pope studied the problem alone.

It was suggested in some quarters that the government might have finally answered, through secret negotiators, the two notes of protest transmitted from the Vatican, both of which remained publicly unanswered, and that this might have been the reason for the new spirit of hopefulness apparent in Vatican quarters.

The Italian broadcast last night in which priests were charged with "black ingratitude" was not published in the newspapers today and caused no comment from the Vatican.

HUGE RESERVE ARMY RUMORED IN MEXICO

1,500,000 Trained Men to Be Turned Out by Schools, Newspaper Says.

Mexico City, May 8 (A.P.).—The newspaper El Universal Grafico said today that plans to create a Mexican military reserve of 1,500,000 trained men will be worked out by a government commission and presented to President Ortiz Rubio for his approval this month.

The newspaper says the scheme involves military training in all public schools, starting in kindergartens, where little children will be taught to play with toy soldiers and given other preparatory training.

From the first grade up actual military studies will be given. The newspaper estimates that within a few years the upper schools will be turning out thousands of trained soldiers each year.

This reserve force would be in addition to the standing army of approximately 60,000 men and the present agrarian reserve, estimated at 100,000.

Several months ago an official announcement was made of plans to install obligatory military training in the schools, but nothing further had been mentioned in this connection until today's published story.

The paper did not quote any official source, but indicated it had obtained the information from reliable quarters.

Mosley Denies Report His Aids Visited Hitler

London, June 7 (A.P.).—Sir Oswald Mosley, who recently announced formation of a "Strong-Arm Squad" to deal with those who interrupt meetings of the "new party" which he heads, today denied reports that two members of his group have visited Germany to study methods of Adolph Hitler, National Socialist leader.

"The story is quite untrue," Mosley declared. "Two members of the party went to Germany on a holiday at their own expense. One of them had business connections in Germany."

Santiago Is Quiet Following Riots

Havana, Cuba, June 7 (U.P.).—Troops continued on duty in Santiago de Cuba today with no renewals of rioting such as occurred yesterday at the American consulate.

The problem of maintaining peace among the unemployed in the Santiago region has become acute, however, due to the ending of the sugar grinding season and the cessation of labor on public works.

The jobless have been attempting to get transportation to the capital, but were told the situation is just as bad here. The disturbance yesterday started as a result of disorders by unemployed, who went to the American Consulate to demand help and protection after having been dispersed by soldiers. The troops again attempted to drive them away, but the mob rushed into the building and battled soldiers from within. There were no serious casualties.

Museum Fire Seen As Incendiarism

Crowds Visit Ruins Where Works of Art Went Up in Smoke.

Munich, Germany, June 7 (A.P.).—Munich's citizens were speculating today over whether incendiarism was the cause of the disastrous fire yesterday which destroyed almost 3,000 precious works of art in the famous old Crystal Palace.

From all the nearby towns the people crowded in today to see the ruins. Suburban trains were jammed and the streets in the vicinity of where the old glass palace stood were crowded with automobiles.

Most of those who discussed the fire were inclined to believe it was incendiary, possibly the work of some disgruntled person. Whatever caused the fire, it seemed most likely it will never be known. Every bit of evidence was annihilated in the utter ruin wrought by the flames.

Miss Cheatham Is Betrothed to Lieut. Van Ness

Engagement Announced at Tea; Wedding Date Is Not Fixed.

MAJ. GEN. AND MRS. BENJAMIN F. CHEATHAM announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Virginia Cheatham, to Lieut. Cornelius Peter Van Ness, U. S. M. C., son of Mr. Frank Van Ness, of San Francisco, yesterday afternoon at a small tea given in their apartment at 2101 Connecticut avenue.

The tea was given in honor of Miss Frances Morse, daughter of Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. John Wise Morse, whose marriage to Ensign Raymond Paul Hunter, U. S. N., will take place June 20. The announcement came as a surprise to the small company invited for tea, for Miss Cheatham only recently returned to Washington from Vassar College, where she has just completed her junior year. Two seasons ago Miss Cheatham made her debut during the Thanksgiving holidays, and then returned to college to devote her attentions to more serious pursuits until Christmas, when she again came to the Capital to turn wholeheartedly to the gaieties provided at that season for the younger set. Miss Cheatham is studying, among other things, art, and is specializing in portraiture, for which she is said to have great talent.

Lieut. Van Ness, who claims California as his home, is a member of one of Washington's oldest and most distinguished families. His ancestor, Gen. John Peter Van Ness, famous in the War of 1812, was the owner of old land grants in the District of Columbia, and it was for him that Van Ness Park was named. In 1817 he started the building of the famous old Van Ness Mansion, which was erected on the site where the Pan American Building now stands, and which as late as 1830 was "unexcelled in beauty and dignity by any home in the country."

Gen. Van Ness was mayor of Washington from 1830 to 1835. The grandfather of Lieut. Van Ness, from Washington went to California, and was among the early mayors of San Francisco, where he made his home. It is for him that Van Ness avenue in that city has been named. Lieut. Van Ness was reared in that State and attended college there.

No plans have been made for the wedding, as Miss Cheatham expects to finish her course at Vassar, and only after she is graduated next June, will she begin to make definite arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Collins, of New York, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son on June 4. Mrs. Collins is the former Miss Delphine Heyl, daughter of the late Col. and Mrs. Charles H. Heyl, of Washington.

Miss Emilie Winslow Wed to Mr. C. I. Wylde.

Miss Emilie Winslow, youngest daughter of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Cameron MacR. Winslow of Boston, and this city, became the wife of Mr. Cecil Irton Wylde, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wylde, of Boston, and Cumberland, England on Saturday.

The ceremony took place in a small studio Summer house on the lawn of the Winslow estate on Narragansett avenue, in Newport, R. I. The Rev. Jeremiah W. Baggott, pastor of St. Mary's Church, performed the ceremony.

Miss Winslow wore a bridal gown of white tulle, with long veil caught up with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of jasmines and lilies of the valley. She was given in marriage by her father, and attended by her sisters, Miss Theodora Winslow, who on June 27 is to become the bride of Auguste L. Noel, of New York, and Miss Natalie Winslow another sister. Both attendants were attired in peach-colored net gowns, with pale green hats, and carried bouquets of roses.

The bridegroom's best man and only attendant was his brother, Mr. John Wylde, jr., of Boston.

Mr. Arthur Bradley Campbell, of Washington and London, who is now spending some time in Paris, recently entertained at luncheon at the Ritz when his guests included Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, wife of Senator Swanson; Mrs. Guy D. Goff, Princess Margaret Boncompagni, Prince and Princess Jean Capece Zurlo, Countess Constantini, Mrs. Kinsley MacComber, Gen. Stanley Ford, Mr. Harold Williamson and Capt. Stanley Mitchell.

Mrs. Arthur Stanley Riggs has returned to Stoneleigh Court for a few days before leaving town for the summer. Mrs. Riggs has been in New York for two weeks, having spent the winter on the East Coast of Florida. She will accompany Dr. Riggs, director of the Archeological Society, next week to Seabright, N. J., for a few weeks before they sail for Greece on July 9. Dr. Riggs will study new excavations in Athens and will also inspect a number of other archeological sites.

Mr. and Mrs. Maxim Karolik have closed their home here for the summer and have gone to Newport for the remainder of the season.

Col. Wade H. Cooper is attending the annual meeting of the board of trustees of the Lincoln Memorial University, Cumberland Gap, Tenn.

Miss Janet Woodbridge Bride of Lieut. Patrick.

The wedding of Miss Janet Hastings Woodbridge, daughter of Mrs. Harold W. Churchill, wife of Capt. Churchill, of the Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., and Lieut. Bream Cooley Patrick, son of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Mason Patrick, of Washington, took place on Saturday at noon, the Rev. Thomas Gutherie Spears officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. Churchill, and wore a gown of white Spanish lace.

Miss Margaret Shultz was her only attendant, and the best man was Lieut. Lewis Griffin. The ushers were Lieut. Wall H. Kenneth, Lieut. Roderick L. Carmichael, jr., Lieut. Robert B. Gibnen, jr., and Lieut. George C. Duehring.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Officers Club at the Proving Grounds. After a wedding trip, Lieut. and Mrs. Patrick will make their home at Fort Hoyle, Md.

Mrs. Emile Berliner, who is living at Wardman Park, has as her guests for a short time, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Gardner, of Montreal, Canada.

The marriage of Miss Mary Margaret Ruane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Ruane, 6319 Connecticut avenue, to Mr. Nicholas Auth, of this city, will take place in the Church of the Most Blessed Sacrament at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The president of the George Washington University and Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin will receive this afternoon from 4 until 7 o'clock at the Washington Club in honor of members of the graduating classes of the University and their parents.

Mrs. Marvin will be assisted by the wives of the trustees, provost, and deans.

Dancing will take place in the ballroom of the club.

Mrs. Ray F. Guynn entertained at luncheon Friday at the Carlton in honor of her sister, Mrs. Lawrence W. Park, of Rutland Heights, Mass.

Miss Agnes Layng and Mr. Kniffin Married in New York.

Mr. Henry Benning Spencer is spending a few days in New York, where on Saturday he attended the wedding of his niece, Miss Agnes Means Layng, daughter of Mrs. James Dawson Layng, jr., and the late Mr. Layng, of New York, and Mr. Edgar Aldrich Kniffin, eldest son of Mrs. Howard S. Kniffin and the late Mr. Kniffin, of Cedarhurst, Long Island.

Owing to the recent death of the bride's paternal grandmother the wedding was small, and instead of taking place in St. Mark's Church, Mount Kisco, as originally planned, the Rev. Dr. H. Adye Prichard, rector of that church, performed the ceremony on the front terrace of Round Top Farm, the home of the bride's mother in Somers.

The bride, who is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Spencer and a descendant of Gen. Henry L. Benning, was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Spencer. She wore a gown of ivory-colored satin and two veils, one of old rose point lace, an heirloom, over another of voluminous tulle. The veils were caught to the coiffure with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Walter C. Stanton, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and another sister, Mrs. John O. Chiles; Mrs. Benjamin Toron, of Washington; Mrs. Howard S. Kniffin, jr., Mrs. William A. Russell, Mrs. Charles E. Elliott, Miss Louise Spencer, a cousin, of Washington; Miss Agnes Green and Miss Susan Moore were the other attendants. They wore frocks of daffodil yellow mousseline de soie with hats to correspond and carried bouquets of spring flowers. Walter C. Stanton, jr., nephew of the bride, was page.

Mr. Kniffin, who is a grandson and namesake of the late Judge Edgar Aldrich, of Littleton, N. H., was attended by his brother, Howard S. Kniffin, jr., as best man. Ogden and Remick Kniffin, also brothers; William H. Avery, jr., Charles W. Bartlett, Cornelius Rea Agnew, jr., Dudley B. Bonsal, Bronson Goddard, Harland F. Baker, Davis Hall, William C. Breed, jr., William L. Brewster, John O. Chiles, Walter C. Stanton and Alfred U. Lawrence served as ushers.

Following the ceremony there was a small reception. Mr. Kniffin and his bride, after their wedding trip, will live at 35 West Ninth street, New York.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. S. E. W. Kittelle have gone to Lafayette, Ind., to be present at the graduation of their son Mr. Sumner Sigsbee Kittelle, at Purdue University.

Summer Visit Abroad Is Plan Of Pattersons

Will Leave Capital This Week and Sail in July for Europe.

Mrs. Rushmore Patterson and her son, Mr. Rushmore Patterson, will leave Washington this week for their country home at Woodbury, N. Y., near Tuxedo Park. Early in July they will sail for Europe to pass the remainder of the summer. They will go first to Sweden and will take their car, so they may motor through the beautiful scenes of the Scandinavian countries. Later they plan to go to Russia and, although they had at first thought of motoring, have found that they can not take a car into the country, so will have to content themselves with other means of travel.

Before returning to this country in the fall Mrs. Patterson and her son will visit in Paris and other capitals of the continent.

Mrs. Timothy T. Ansberry, wife of Judge Ansberry, and her son, Mr. Peter Ansberry, will leave this week for their summer home in the White Mountains.

Mrs. Walter Schoellkopf, wife of the former Second Secretary of the American Embassy in Madrid, who has recently been transferred to the State Department here, is now in Paris, where they are spending a month's leave before coming to Washington. Recently Mrs. Schoellkopf entertained at dinner for Miss Jasmin Schoellkopf, who has returned to Paris from London, where she was presented to the Court of St. James.

North Beach Club Has Party Friday.

The Women's Home Club, of North Beach, will give a dance and card party on Friday evening at the Indian Springs Golf Club, on the Colesville pike. The committee is Mrs. Nock, Mrs. Walter Haring, Mrs. Roselia Shaw and Miss E. DeNeale.

THE Radio Manufacturers Association will open its fifth annual radio trade show and convention in Chicago this morning. The latest developments in receiving sets and television machines will be exhibited. Compact midget sets will be shown by nearly every manufacturer.

"We are sold out in space," said Bond Geddes, vice president of the association, "in both the ballroom and exhibition hall. The hotel reservations indicate excellent attendance."

Fifteen minutes of fast-moving melody by an orchestra under Harry Kogan, with vocal specialties by Irene Taylor, blues singer, will be featured in a new weekly series, starting tonight (WRC, 9:45 p. m.).

The Goldman Band Concerts, under the baton of Edwin Franko Goldman, featured in many summer series, will renew their broadcasts beginning this week—Wednesdays—WJZ network, 8:30 p. m., and Sundays, WRC, 9:15 p. m. Del Staigers, cornet soloist, will appear with the band.

ONE of the oldest sponsored programs, the Atwater Kent concert, is scheduled to go off the air, its final broadcast being arranged for June 28. The program was inaugurated on October 4, 1925. It was one of the first periods to introduce operatic stars. The series may be resumed in September.

An attempt will be made to pick up and rebroadcast in the United States a 30-minute concert by The Revelers, singing in Leipzig, Germany, this afternoon (WRC, 3 o'clock).

When Thompkins Corners honors its local baseball team in the "Real Folks" program tonight, Lou Gehrig, heavy-hitting first baseman of the New York Yankees, will award the baseball cup to the team captain, and give them some expert advice on how to play the game (WJZ, 8:30 o'clock).

Johannes Brahms' "Symphony in E Minor," his fourth and last, will be played in its entirety by the Roxy Symphony Orchestra (WJZ network, 6:45 tonight). Erno Rapee will conduct.

Ben Bernie and his orchestra will enliven the evening's entertainment from WMAL in the second program of a new series.

PLAYING the role of Violetta in "La Traviata," Rosa Ponselle, American-born soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will be heard across the Atlantic for the second time tomorrow, when part of Verdi's opera is broadcast (WMAL, 2:15 p. m.).

Dedicatory exercises of new educational buildings at famous old Heidelberg University will be rebroadcast from Germany, via the WJZ network, tomorrow afternoon, 3 o'clock.

Probably the earliest program in the country, WLS awakens the Middle West every week day morning at 5 o'clock. Favorite WLS entertainers take turns. In the first week nearly 1,000 letters were received from listeners who said they were up and ready for it.

United States Commissioner of Education W. J. Cooper will speak on "The Educational Functions of Radio" tomorrow (WJZ network, 3:30 p. m.) when he appears before the Second Annual Institute for Education by Radio at Columbus, Ohio.

Federal Radio Commissioner Harold A. Lafount will address the assembly this evening.

ARTHUR BAGLEY is spelling the words "gym class" in the daily announcements of late because of a recent misunderstanding. Several radio fans wrote to ask of the "largest gin glass."

The second of the classical series by the Virtuosos, under the direction of Alfred Wallenstein, will be heard tomorrow night (WRC, 7:30 o'clock). Mr. Wallenstein will play Bloch's "Prayer" as a cello solo.

Joseph T. Fanning, editor of "The Elks" Magazine, will be the guest speaker on "Bill Schudt's Going to Press" on Wednesday afternoon (WMAL 5 o'clock).

THE Three Doctors—Pratt, Sherman and Rudolph—will make daily appearances, beginning this afternoon (WMAL, 2:30 p. m.).

Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, will address the graduating class of the Mechanics Institute at Rochester, N. Y., tomorrow morning (WRC, 10:45 a. m.). His subject will be "Adult Education."

Sir John Reith, director general of radio in England, will be presented a medal by CBS because he has "contributed much to the advancement of radio in the cultural and entertainment fields." Sir John will broadcast his speech of acceptance tomorrow night (WMAL, 7:15 p. m.)

BROADCASTING Station KTNT, Muscatine, Iowa, owned and operated by Norman T. Baker, was ordered off the air last week by the Federal Radio Commission, effective immediately, because of its offers to listeners of "cures" for cancer and attacks on medical associations.

A Interprets the MODE

New York, June 7.

MARK my words, we're going to be in for a siege of even more vivid colors than we've had this season, if the indications I've observed are correct, and it's all due to the French colonial exposition about which we've heard so much and which now that it's opened has proven to be everything everybody said it would be. Orangey reds, brilliant blues, flat bright greens, bright yellow, will all be seen this summer. Already several houses have launched colors directly based on the colonies such as Bruyere's Algerian red, a bright yellowy red, and her Hindu green, a green, extremely bright with lots of yellow in it. All the mahoganies and warm browns, right up to coppery red and flame color are featured by one important house, and what's more combined together—such as the use of warm brown with red, actually.

And oh, I must tell you that I was smuggled into the exposition grounds long before it was opened to the public, by a very well-known and distinguished couturiere—and we were looking at the section devoted to Timbuctoo which consisted of huts and houses in the most glorious shade of terra cotta which seen against the early spring foliage was simply breath taking. I told this certain famous couturiere that I found the combination of foliage green and this rich terra cotta extremely effective and before I knew what she was doing she had stooped down and scooped up a bit of the terra cotta sand—doubtless to use as a sample in having her materials dyed, so I suppose she found my suggestion good, and that we will see this warm brick red combined with spring leaf green in the near future.

You may think these colors sound awfully hot for summer wear, but they use them in Algeria (and Timbuctoo), where it's very hot, indeed, so maybe in the interests of smartness, we'll wear 'em and like 'em.

• • • •

Hot summers hold no terrors for the clever little lady who reads her Dah-ray collom faithfully—for there is not only a leaflet available this week telling her eggzactly how to make a really practical and cool and chic summer dress, for which she has only to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post, but there are a lot of hot weather loveliness hints starting to grow right out loud in this collom.

And by the way, I wish to add in passing (out) that there are several collar and cuff sets with this clever dress—and how and where to carry them out with you for a quick change from looking the weather to looking like a lovely lady—and the directions for all of it.

• • • •

Sometimes simplicity hooks up with extravagance, and achieves an effect. That's what two mill-yun dollah silver foxes did to today's elegantly cut and graceful gray coat—the skins wrapped themselves around each sleeve, and the coat was cut in a way to wrap itself around the wearer and they all wrapped themselves around my heart and pen, and there they are.

• • • •

• • • •

Did you read the weekly Dare fashion letter in yesterday's Sunday Post? There'll be another one next Sunday.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Carey" involves, together with other interesting sources, the name "Fiacre," which has come to be used as the French word for a cab or coach. One of the sources of "Carey" is the Irish name "Mac Fhiachra", (also spelled "Mac Fhiachrach"), which means "the son of Fiachra." "Fiachra" was a very common Celtic personal name, meaning "the raven." One of its distinguished bearers was St. Fiachra the Jeanne Le Vans, pianist. Solitary, who left Ireland to seek solitude in France, where he founded the monastery of Breuil. His shrine has always been a constant place of pilgrimage and his name has been given in baptism to many French children. Likewise, streets and buildings have been named after him. The French form of "Fiachra" is "Fiacre." In front of the Hotel Saint-Fiacre in Paris, in 1640, there was established one of the first regular stations for cabs. The cabs and the buildings near which they were stationed became so closely associated in the minds of Parisians that "fiacre" came to be accepted as the regular word for "cab," and has remained so up to the present time, even though the reason for the name is not generally known. Although the Irish name "Mac Fhiachra" has normally resulted in the modern names "MacKeighry," "MacKeary" and ("Keary," a few families who were once so called have adopted the name "Carey" as its supposed equivalent. However, the commonest Irish source of "Carey" is "O Ciardha," which means "the descendant of Ciardha." The personal name "Ciardha" means "black," and was first given as a nickname to persons with dark hair or dark complexions. (The next article of this series will include further remarks concerning the family name "Carey.")

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

THE RAMBLING WALL GARDEN.

IN Scotland, surrounding the Manse of Fyvie, Aberdeenshire, is a quaintly lovely garden filled to overflowing with secluded nooks and pleasing vistas. In the late springtime, for spring comes late in Scotland, the jubilant yellow daffodils, deep-throated blue crocuses and dainty primrose splash the landscape with a riot of color. In a remote corner of this ancient garden is "a garden of remembrance," where saxifrages of many sorts, stone crops and bell flowers pay tribute to the fleeting present though closely interwoven with an enduring past.

While the wall gardens on the larger estates afford an atmosphere of peace and provide a comfortable place to linger and examine the individual flowers which peer from the many crevices between the stones, they have nothing that even a very small garden may not capture for its own.

It is in the small garden that a wall garden is often the greatest help and pleasure. When building a wall garden, be sure to tip the stones into the wall so that the rain will run back to the roots of the plants. For, at best, the inside of the wall will get very dry.

In a small garden, where we long for privacy, a planted wall may solve our problem in a most pleasing manner. More and more it is becoming the custom in this country, as it is in France and England, to put a frame around one's garden which will serve as a background for the close-to-the-ground low plants which carpet the land with flowers. A wall garden, to be a real "joy forever," must be in a place both light and airy and away from the direct shade of trees.

Plant rock garden or wall garden plants in the spring, if possible. The planting in the crevices is best done during construction. Tufted plants, with rosettes of foliage like "hen and chickens," the heucheras and saxifraga are most suitable for the small crevices. Plant a percentage of flowers which have a tendency to drop down over the face of the wall. It is the drooping varieties which make the wall so beautiful.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Men and Their Money.

DEAR FRANCES M'DONALD: What is the matter with men? I have just read Pete's wail about losing his "Star-Eyes." Again I ask what is the matter with the man, and what is the matter with most men? Why do they think that they must have a fortune before they can ask a girl to marry them? If Pete wants to marry his "Star-Eyes," why doesn't he tell her so, and tell her that he can't afford to buy $2.75 theater tickets and $1 suppers? If she is worth anything and cares for him as he professes to care for her, she will want him and not the money he can spend on her.

Honestly, I would really like to know why so many men think that they can't enjoy an evening with a girl without spending their week's salary. Do you know what I sometimes suspect? I suspect that those poor men haven't enough in their own heads, enough resources within themselves to be good for an evening's conversation. So, to cover up their lack, they must be eternally doing something—going to $2.75 shows, eating $1 suppers, taking $1 taxi rides. If they didn't do those things, the girls might find out just what poor companions they really are.

Do you know the real truth? Most men want to spend a lot of money on a girl—just to show off to themselves and others. And if they don't have the money to spend, then they want to complain loudly to the world about what a rotten bunch girls are anyway. But they aren't really interested in quieter, less showy forms of entertainment. Sometimes I think that gold-diggers have the right idea after all. There is no doubt that they represent a type of girl who gets attention from men. If men didn't like that type, they wouldn't spend so much money on it, would they?

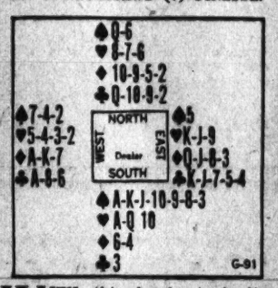
A girl does not want to feel that she is furnishing all the entertainment or that a man is parking himself on her doorstep because it is a pleasant and cheap way of spending his time. But I know many girls who enjoy an evening at home with those same men. When two intelligent people find that they are companionable, I don't see why they can't work out a method by which they can enjoy each other's company without spending $10 an evening.

I hope that Pete will look up his "Star-Eyes" again and at least find out what she thinks. If she is nothing but a gold-digger he may decide that he doesn't want her anyway. Probably she isn't a gold-digger, and then he may be glad that he tried again. In any case, has she no rights? Shouldn't she be given even a hearing?

ANOTHER GIRL CALLED LOU.

WORK ON BRIDGE

AN UNNECESSARY (?) FINESSE.



WITH this hand at Auction Bridge South would obtain the contract with an initial bid of three or four Spades; with a suit as long and strong as South's Spades and with nothing in the minors, a preemptive bid is correct despite the strength in the other major suit.

At Contract South bid three Spades (that bid most accurately describing the strength of his holding and probably preempting); North raised South's three Spades to four, on the Queen of Spades and his Club holding.

East and West had not the strength for a bid either at Auction or at Contract.

West led the King and Ace of Diamonds. In response to his partner's Eight-Trey signal he followed with the Seven which South trumped. Declarer then drew two rounds of trumps, winning the second in dummy. North led a Heart which South won with the Ten and led a Club. West won and led a fourth Diamond; South ruffed and attempted a squeeze by playing three more rounds of trumps; but East held his King-Jack of Hearts and the contract was set one trick.

Do you see how Declarer could have made game against perfect defense?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Declarer's only chance for game is to find the King-Jack of Hearts with East and to play through them twice. In order to secure two entries in dummy, Declarer must succeed either in dropping the Seven of Spades on the first round of that suit, or in finessing the Six; the latter effort is more apt to succeed. At trick 3 South should trump the third round of Diamonds with a high Spade, lead the Trey and play dummy's Six unless West should play the Seven. When the Six holds, dummy should lead a Heart and South should take the double finesse. A second round of trumps taken with dummy's Queen, and another Heart through East's King-Jack wins the game, Declarer taking seven Spade tricks and three Hearts.

What Today Means to You

"GEMINI."

IF June 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:10 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 6:40 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger hours are from 9 a. m. to 10:45 a. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.

June 8th, according to the Signs, is an occasion of outstanding indications. Radical and complete change in some existing arrangements is almost certain, and such change can be turned to your definite advantage. After sunset, settled, benign conditions will prevail.

A child born on this June 8th will be keen and quick to learn. It will have good common sense and possess an active mind. Its tastes will favor country life, and it should be encouraged to avoid any occupation of a sedentary nature. Affectionate, but not demonstrative.

Born on June 8th, you are slow, but very sure. A deep thinker, you have a passion for getting at the truth, and never attempt to fool yourself or lull your senses by imagination. You are quite a serious sort of a person, and your philosophy of life is rather sombre. With it all, you have a kind heart and a sympathetic nature, and try—very successfully at times—to help those who need help. At other times, an excess of inquisitiveness deprives a favor of much of its value.

Your ideals are high, and you do not render lip-service only to your beliefs and convictions. You endeavor to live them. You are not as tolerant as you should be, and your judgments, although sound, are not characterized by mercy. You possess a fund of valuable knowledge, and this is very clearly shown in your conversation, which usually delights and instructs. You are not ambitious of material rewards, and, although a conscientious worker, the Signs indicate that you will not achieve either power or position. You will, however, secure a large degree of happiness, and, what is better still, contribute to the happiness of others—especially of all those that comprise your family circle.

YEARS OF GRACE

By MARGARET AYER BARNES

SYNOPSIS.

The winter passes. Jimmy will return in two weeks to New York as his job is over. He and Jane have become very companionable, as Jimmy writes his confidences and they discuss things together. Life has never seemed so fair to Jane. Her love for Stephen and the children is great, as during this period. Suddenly one day, her sister Isabel tells Jane before her mother that Muriel has seen Jane and Jimmy dining in a restaurant together rather intimately and that Muriel is gossiping about it. Jane is resentful and angry. She feels that hers and Jimmy's friendship for one another is a very precious thing and beyond reproach.

JIMMY—CHAPTER X.

NEXT morning Stephen had his eighteen holes of golf with Jimmy. The April day had dawned very bright and fair. The men came home from the links just a little late for luncheon with Jane and the children. It was nearly 3 before the meal was finished. While they were drinking their after-luncheon coffee, Mr. and Mrs. Ward turned up, rather unexpectedly. The day was so pleasant, Mrs. Ward remarked, that they had motored out to spend Sunday afternoon with the grandchildren. Mr. Ward had greeted Jimmy very affably, but Mrs. Ward looked distinctly affronted by his presence at Jane's fireside.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward did not leave their grandchildren until after 6 o'clock. It was time to dress for dinner when they had gone.

Both men seemed silent, Jane thought, at table. Tired out, perhaps, by their morning of golf in the open air.

Jane rose from the table.

"Go up and do your home work, Cicily," she said cheerfully.

"Come Out in the Garden——"

The children trooped upstairs to the playroom. Stephen picked up the Sunday paper. What with the golf all morning and the family all afternoon, he had not really assimilated the real estate columns. Jimmy wandered over to the glass doors that opened on the terrace.

"Come out in the garden, Maud," he said lightly to Jane. "The moon is full tonight."

Jane looked at Stephen a little hesitantly.

"You come, too, Stephen," she said.

"Run along with Jimmy," he said. Then, as his eyes returned to the real estate page, "I think this Michigan Avenue Extension Bridge is really going through. That lot of your father's on Pine street will be worth a fortune some day, Jane."

Jane walked at Jimmy's side across the shaded terrace and down into the moonlight garden. They strolled the length of it in silence. The night was fresh and just a little cool. The moon was high in the eastern sky. It seemed racing rapidly through the ragged rents in the tattered clouds. There was no wind in the garden, however. The moon-blanched daffodils were motionless in their bed beneath the evergreens. The boughs of the apple tree did not stir.

Puts His Coat About Her.

"Sit down, Jane," Jimmy said, "Are you cold?"

"No," said Jane, sinking down on the bench beside him. "I think the air is lovely."

"Better put on my coat," said Jimmy.

"No—I don't need it," said Jane.

Jimmy took it off, however, and wrapped it about her shoulders. He turned the collar up, very carefully, around her bare throat. Jane could smell the faint distinctive odor of the tweed as he did so.

"I want you to be comfortable," said Jimmy.

"I am comfortable," smiled Jane.

"I want you to be comfortable," continued Jimmy, ignoring her comment, "because I'm going to talk to you for a long, long time; it will take a long, long time, even out here in the moonlight, to make you understand all that I have to say."

Jane looked quickly up at him, disquieted by his words. Jimmy's face was very calm. He seemed, at the moment, a very tranquil faun. In one instance, however, by one sentence, he shattered the tranquillity of the moment.

"What do you think," he said, "is going to happen to you and me?"

Love Each Other, He Insists.

Jane stared at him.

"To you—and me?" she faltered He looked steadily down at her. "Why, Jimmy"—she was conscious of smiling nervously—"what—what could happen?"

He ignored her foolish question.

"I'm married to Agnes," said Jimmy; "you're married to Stephen. We've known each other just seven months and we're in love with each other. What's going to happen?"

Jane, in her utter astonishment, half-rose from the bench.

"We—we're not in love with each other," she protested hotly.

"Jane"—said Jimmy sadly—don't waste time in prevarication. The night is all too short as it is."

"I'm not in love with you," said Jane, sinking back on the bench.

"Oh, yes, you are," said Jimmy.

"I love Stephen," said Jane, staring straight into his eyes.

"Yes," said Jimmy,—"that makes it worse, for you're not in love with him. There's a great difference, you know, in those two states of mind, or rather of emotion. You're in love with me and I'm in love with you. I haven't been in love with Agnes for years. I don't even love her, any more. She's irritated me too often. I respect her—she amuses me—I'm grateful to her——"

Wants Her to Go Away With Him.

"Jimmy! Don't talk like that!" cried Jane sharply.

"But you love Stephen," went on Jimmy imperturbably. "Which complicates everything, for of course you'll want to consider him."

"Consider him!" cried Jane. "Of course I want to consider him!"

"Yes," said Jimmy reasonably, "That's what I said. That's what makes it so difficult."

"Makes what so difficult?" cried Jane.

"My persuading you to come away with me," said Jimmy, calmly.

"Have you lost your mind?" demanded Jane.

"For you are going to come away with me, in the end, Jane," said Jimmy. "But I'll have to do an awful lot of talking first."

"I'm not in love with you," said Jane again. Meeting Jimmy's eyes, however, her glance fell before his gaze.

"No use in not facing it, Jane," said Jimmy.

"I—I didn't even know you were in love with me," said Jane, "You—you've never made love to me except—except just that once——"

"I've been making love to you, Jane," said Jimmy, "from the moment that you resented that kiss. Not before. I just kissed you for the fun of it, and you were quite right to resent it. But since then, Jane, I haven't thrown a glance or said a word that wasn't arrant love making. Oh"—he stopped her indignant protest—"I know you never recognized it. You're invincibly innocent. Any other woman would have known it at once, and would either have kicked me out or responded in kind. In either case I'd have tired of her in two months."

To Marry Her, He Tells Jane.

"You're asking me to respond in kind, now," said Jane tremulously. "At least—at least I suppose you are."

"You bet I am," said Jimmy.

"So that you can tire of me in two months?" asked Jane.

"So that I can marry you," said Jimmy promptly. "I want you to come away with me, Jane, tonight, or tomorrow or next week, Wednesday—any time you say. I want you to face the music. I want you to meet your fate. I want you to live, before you die. Did you know that you'd never lived, Jane? That's why you're so invincibly innocent. I want you to live, darling. I want to live with you." His eager face was close to hers. But still he had not so much as touched her hands. They were clasped very tightly together in her lap.

"Jimmy," said Jane brokenly, "please stop."

"Why?" said Jimmy eagerly.

"Because it's no use," said Jane. "I won't deceive Stephen, or betray Agnes, or leave my children."

"But you love me?" said Jimmy.

"You love me?" he repeated a little huskily. "Oh, Jane—my darling—say it!" His shaken accents tore at her heartstrings.

Whispers She Loves Him.

"Yes," whispered Jane. "I—I love you." Her eyes were on the cloud-shadows racing across the lawn. She could hardly believe that she had uttered the sentence that rang in her ears. It had fluttered from her lips before she was aware The words themselves gave actuality to the statement. Once said they were true. They trembled in the silent garden. Winged words, that could not be recalled.

"Jane!" breathed Jimmy. And still he did not touch her. Staring straight before her at the cloud-shadows, Jane was suddenly conscious of a dreadful devastating wish that he would.

Jane felt herself in a maze of emotion.

"Jimmy," said Jane, after a moment, "this is terrible—this is perfectly terrible. I—I can't tell even you how I feel." She slipped from his embrace.

"Even me?" smiled Jimmy. Until he repeated them, Jane had not realized the tender import of her words. He took her again in his arms.

Wants Her to Feel, Not Think.

"Jimmy—don't!" said Jane faintly: "I'm sinking, Jimmy, I'm sinking into a pit that a moment before was unthinkable! Stop kissing me, Jimmy! For God's sake, stop kissing me! I want to think!"

"I don't want you to think," said Jimmy. "I want you to feel."

"But I—I am thinking" said Jane, pitifully.

"Don't do it!" said Jimmy.

But Jane steadfastly put away his arms.

"Jimmy," she said, desperately, "we must think. We must think of every one. If I went away with you, we wouldn't achieve happiness."

"Of course, we would," said Jimmy. "We've only one life to live, Jane, and that life's half over. Let's make the most of it while it lasts."

"But Stephens' life," said Jane, "and Agnes'——"

"Don't think of them," said Jimmy. "Think only of us. Are our lives nothing?"

"I can't think only of us," said Jane.

"You could if you came away with me," said Jimmy. "You will come, won't you, Jane?"

"No, Jimmy," said Jane, very sadly.

"Then I'll carry you off, darling," said Jimmy, "to some chimerical place. We'll jump over a broomstick together in the dark of the moon to the tinkle of a tambourine. Let's sail for the South Sea Islands, Jane, just as we planned that first evening. Let's go to Siam and Burma and on into India——"

So Ridiculous and So Adorable.

"Oh, Jimmy," sighed Jane, "you're so ridiculous—and so adorable!"

There was only one answer to that.

"You're adorable," said Jimmy, as he kissed her. "And ridiculous!"

"Jimmy," said Jane, "am I dreaming? I must be dreaming—though I never dreamed of you like this before."

"Invincible innocent," laughed Jimmy. "You're going away with me! You're going to leave this garden forever. You'll never see that apple tree in bloom again——"

"Never that apple tree?" said Jane. "But you'll see other trees in bloom," smiled Jimmy, "in other gardens."

"But not that one?" said Jane. "Not that one with Jenny's swing hanging from its branches and Steve's treehouse nailed to its trunk and the bare place beneath it where the grass never grew after we took up Cicily's first sandpile?"

"Don't think darling," said Jimmy quickly.

They sat a long time in silence.

"No—not cold," murmured Jane.

"Thinking?" whispered Jimmy.

"No—not thinking," murmured Jane. "Not thinking any more at all."

"Coming?" smiled Jimmy.

"I—don't know," said Jane. "Don't ask me that or I'll begin thinking. Just hold me, Jimmy, hold me in your arms."

WOODLAND BEACH LURE TO HUNDREDS

Post Summer Community Is Excellent Retreat From City's Heat.

Did you visit Woodland Beach yesterday and enjoy the 101 summer advantages that it presents as compared to remaining in Washington? If you did not, you missed something which has attracted hundreds of other residents of the Capital and caused them to become lot owners at this delightful South River site in Maryland.

Yesterday's fine weather brought additional hundreds to the beach to see the glories of nature about which their friends had been telling them.

Scores of persons who had visited the beach previously and made selections of lots, returned just to enjoy a picnic on the grounds or to show some relative or friend where their summer homes will be rising.

Weather Increases Interest.

The warm weather of the last few days has doubled the interest in Woodland Beach because this summer colony development project, sponsored by The Washington Post, offers just what the heat-weary residents want in the way of relief.

Woodland Beach, 32 miles from Washington, is located in an ideal spot. It is a nice drive, not too far for overnight visiting. Yet it is far enough from the hustle and bustle of city traffic to offer peace and quiet to those who like the rural atmosphere for their summer places.

For the sportsman or sportswoman, Woodland Beach has fishing, boating and bathing to offer. For the children there are amusement devices already installed. And for the lot owners, who will form an association, there is a community clubhouse to be turned over to the association by The Post.

Lots are Priced Low.

Best of all the features of Woodland Beach is the low price of lots there. Each lot is priced at $93, but that amount of cash is not necessary before becoming an owner. A subscription to The Post is the first step, while the payment of $9 is the second. After that the remainder may be paid in monthly installments of $3.50 each.

To reach Woodland Beach, drive out Defense Highway toward Annapolis as far as Camp Parole. Turn right there onto Maryland State highway No. 2 across the South River bridge and then left onto Mayo road, following this highway to the beach. Persons traveling by W. B. & A. electric cars should leave the cars at Camp Parole, and on Sundays and holidays buses meet each car to transport visitors to and from the beach.

If you have not visited the beach, or have not heard all about it, call at The Post today and before you leave you may have purchased a lot which will eventually result in some of the happiest summers you have ever spent.

The majority of mayors remained at their hotel and attended to official and personal correspondence. This evening they journeyed to Versailles for a big fireworks display and a concert in the grounds of the palace of Louis XIV. The cards are STACKED . . for you!

WHENEVER you drive into a service station having Amoco-Gas and Orange American Gas pumps, you're sure to be right.

There's a difference between them, of course. Amoco-Gas sells at a slightly higher price but it gives you performance you just can't get anywhere else. And more miles to the gallon, lower repair bills, make it actually cost less per mile.

So whichever you choose you can't go wrong. Amoco-Gas costs a little more per gallon, gives super-performance, is more economical in the long run. Orange American Gas, selling at regular gas price, is an outstanding value in its price class.

Drive in any station showing Amoco-Gas and Orange American Gas globes because at those stations the cards are stacked—FOR YOU.

INVESTMENT TRUST CHANGES FAVORED

Report Recommends Clear Statement of Facts on Operations.

Chicago, June 7 (A.P.).—A report recommending drastic changes in the operation of investment trusts, was made public today by the Investment Bankers Association of America.

Adopted at the association's may meeting in White Sulphur Springs, Va., the report stressed the necessity of "taking the public into its confidence" on the exact financial status and practices of each trust.

It specified, for the management type, that the regular reports give complete information about the financial position "as well as a clear statement of operations."

"In particular," it asserted, "the annual report should contain a complete statement of the investments held in the portfolio of the trust. Stockholders and prospective stockholders have a right to know in exactly what securities the management of the investment trust has invested its funds. In order that this may be accomplished, the list of securities should give the names and amounts of each security.

Carried at Cost.

"Securities should be carried on the balance sheet at cost, and it is recommended that costs be computed on an average basis. It is desirable that the total market value of securities be given in the report in order that stockholders may be able to determine the actual liquidating value of their shares, or preferably this liquidating value should be stated in a table supplementing the income statement.

"The amount of the unrealized losses or depreciation, if any, of the portfolio should be clearly stated. If reserves are set up against unrealized losses or for other reasons, the nature and purpose of these reserves should be indicated with a statement as to whether they were created out of income or out of surplus, either earned or paid in."

The report recommended that profits realized on the sale of securities be shown separately from other ordinary income items—"in the event, however, that the management of an investment trust includes realized profits and losses in the income account. If either of these is included, both should be included."

May Expect Gains.

"These recommendations are made so that the income account will not be misinterpreted by investors who are unfamiliar with accounting practices. If abnormal profits are included in the income account, it is likely that some of the stockholders or prospective stockholders will be led to believe that such gains are to be expected in the normal course of business."

The practice of investment banking institutions selling securities to the trusts they sponsor was described as "fraught with danger."

Referring to fixed trusts, the report said their descriptive circulars "should give complete information regarding the responsibility of the trustee as to the underlying shares, and in the issue of fixed trust shares themselves.

"Where the trustee has a limited responsibility, secific statements to that effect should be made in order that the investor may realize exactly to what extent he can depend upon this trusteeship."

Disapproval Is Voiced.

Advertising matter that indicated profits which might have accrued to an investor had he bought before the trust was organized, was disapproved.

"In some cases," the report said, "it is difficult to believe that the sponsors who have selected the underlying property * * * would have had sufficient foresight to select these investments at the time of the hypothetical formation of the trust.

"In certain cases, the trust indenture contains requirements for the elimination of the underlying securities which would have made it necessary for the trustee to dispose of some of the shares that are assumed to have been held in the trust during the entire period covered by the advertisement. This being the case, it is a clear deception to assume that the underlying property would have remained in the portfolio of the fixed trust during the period covered in the analysis."

WEEK'S BOND SALES LOSE GAINS IN PRICE

Popularity of Government Issue Is Feature; Gilt-Edge Loans Lead.

New York, June 7 (A.P.).—The most significant event affecting the bond market last week was the offering and the large overscription of the $800,000,000 issue of Treasury bonds.

The popularity of the issue was assured from the time its terms were made public, but some bankers at least did not expect the subscriptions for it would exced $6,000,000,000—evidence of the huge amount of idle funds awaiting investment.

Large blocks of certificates of indebtedness and bills mature in July and August, and it is possible the Government may undertake further long term financing to provide for their redemption. The success of last week's offering leaves no doubt that the Treasury will be able to sell additional securities if the deficit makes such action necessary.

Railway Issue Proposed.

Another event in which Wall street was interest d was the application by the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway for permission to issue $18,316,000 of bonds whose proceds would be used for refunding maturing issues and improving the company's cash position.

Some such news had been anticipated because of rising prices in the outstanding issues of this carrier of both early and distant maturities. Net gains in the road's bonds ranged upward to 10⅝ points.

The movement of prices generally indicated that the preference of the investing public was still for gilt edge or, at least, high grade obligations. Prices advanced through the middle of the week, but a subsequent reaction was sufficient to wipe out most of the gains. The high grade issues, as a rule, were steady.

Example of Preference.

The best evidence of the public preferences appeared in the action of the Liberty and Treasury issues. They wavered from day to day, but the closing prices for the week revealed general, if usually small, gains. As a group these bonds are within short range of the 1931 peak levels, whereas many second grade obligations are selling at or very near their record low prices for this year.

The bond market nowadays is receiving a certain amount of academic attention in the hope that it will lead the way to a business recovery in the form of better prices for second grade bonds.

Offerings of new issues reflected this preference. Of the total of $73,110,000 of new securities floated, $30,000,000 were 4 per cent bonds of the Province of Ontario, and $20,000,000 were debentures of the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks, and $12,000,000 consisted of two short term public utility issues. Other offerings consisted of small municipal flotations. No industrial or railroad bonds were offered.

$22,500,000 Net Shown By Anglo-Persian Oil

London, June 7 (A.P.).—The report of the board of directors of the Anglo-Persian Oil Co. for last year today reported a profit of approximately $22,500,000 after allowances for depreciation, debentures, interest, royalty and income taxes.

A 10 per cent dividend on ordinary shares was recommended, payable July 31. The report says that "while sales in general were well maintained, values dropped toward the end of 1930 due to combination, world overproduction and falling demand."

Imminence of Television To Be Radio Show's Theme

Seventh Annual Gathering of Industry, Opening in Chicago Today, Will Be Largely Concerned With This Innovation in Broadcasting Field.

Chicago, June 7 (A.P.).—Television is to be the theme running through the seventh annual gathering of the radio industry which starts here tomorrow.

While it may not be brought directly to the attention of the convention of the Radio Manufacturers Association, there is not a doubt that this subject will be taken up seriously at the numerous unofficial conferences that always are an integral part of radio's private display of the new products it plans to offer.

Television men coming from the East announced that they were prepared to talk seriously about the marketing of their products, although some of the spokesmen for the industry, notably David Sarnoff, president of R. C. A., have indicated in statements that 1932 rather than 1931 would see the more general introduction of apparatus designed to pick up pictures via radio.

Activity in connection with the broadcasting of television, with an increasing desire on the part of a greater number of broadcast stations to get on the air with companion short-wave picture stations, has spurred on those who have been conducting experiments in the laboratory and through actual transmissions.

D. E. Replogle, vice president of Jenkins, has not hesitated to predict that this fall would see other centers besides New York and Chicago with audivision stations, that is, with sound on the broadcast channels and television on the short waves.

At the trade show itself, which is held under the sponsorship of R. M. A., there are to be at least five television companies with exhibits included among those of manufacturers showing the latest developments in broadcast receivers and attendant apparatus.

A number of private demonstrations also have been arranged by the television men outside the show itself.

Besides the convention of the R. M. A., associated organizations have meetings scheduled during the show, which is to close June 12.

Among the week's speakers will be Mayor Anton J. Cermack, of Chicago; Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, and Sir John Reith, director general of the British Broadcasting Corporation. Upward of 30,000 visitors are expected.

One announcement of interest to television experimenters came from representatives of the short wave and television laboratories of Boston, who reported that they had obtained the services of U. A. Sanabria, young Chicago engineer, active in radio movie research for several years.

TRADE STILL FACES SUMMER DECLINES

New York, June 7 (A.P.).—Business is working along toward summer with seasonal recessions still in progress, although so far the spring gains in virtually all lines have not been lost.

The most encouraging development of the past week was, of course, the turn in the security markets, an event warmly welcomed as an antidote for the excessive pessimism which was holding back buying of goods and doubtless exaggerating fears for the future. It was admitted, nevertheless, that the business background itself contributed nothing to the rise of stocks.

Tariff discussions are becoming more and more prominent. This topic, which came up at the recent meeting of the foreign trade council, returned to the news early last week when the upward revisions in Canadian duties on many American products were announced.

Increase Effect Problematical.

The effect of this increase remains to be seen. In the recent past there has been a tendency among American producers to sidestep tariff walls by building plants in the countries which erected such barriers.

The long decline in stocks had induced a pessimism that had been felt in many lines of industry. Buying of steel has continued on a hand-to-mouth basis because consumers were unwilling to commit themselves beyond the absolute minimums of current requirements. Trade circles believe, however, that the deferring of needs means a quick revival from the summer low, which is generally expected in July.

Weakness of commodity prices contributes substantially to unsettlement. Copper, dropping to the record low of 8 cents, is apparently faced with a slow domestic demand for several weeks and although producers are unwilling to sell at so low a quotation, the difficulty of moving stocks leads to the suggestion that some of the higher cost units may decide on a temporary shutdown.

Loadings Make Gain.

Freight loadings for the week ended May 23 made a gain, but it was less than seasonal. May earnings of the railroads are not expected to be particularly encouraging, and hope of much improvement has been postponed until the crop movement is reflected in the income statements. The move for higher freight rates was expanded and accelerated by the plans for a general conference on this subject among Eastern, Western and Southern executives.

Retail business is moving into the seasonal reaction, with wholesale and jobbing trade considerably behind it at present. Efforts to draw out the consumer's dollar by means of sales are reported from many sections.

Automobile production in May was lower for the first time since December, but the decline had been expected in view of the satisfactory extent of the spring upturn and a lower rate of operations late in the month. Building is doing reasonably well, although activity in this industry in most districts is under a year ago.

Prompt, too, was the scoundrel who had watched the death notices and sent her an alluring plan on how to "invest" the money.

BROWN HURLS NATS TO 8-1 VICTORY OVER CHISOX

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POYICH

JOSEPH IGNATIUS JUDGE, to use his full handle, who has seen major league baseball played for sixteen years, man and boy, from the vantage point of his station at first base, gained a new insight into the game last week while he was convalescing in mufti among the fans in the left-field grand stand, with Joel Kuhel playing the bag for the Nats.

Whew! That's the first time I ever ran into that board of strategy out there," said Joe. "I'd heard about 'em, but I didn't think it was that bad. If I'd stayed out there much longer I'd have been in a fight.

"Why, those fans want to set a man down for 30 days every time he misses a strike. They call 'em all for you and they're the best second-guessers in the world. The umpire's a bum, not matter which way he calls 'em. The batter's a bum if he misses and the pitcher's a bum if the batter hits. You can't get away from that crowd. They're champions. The way they call 'em from left field on the second guess is remarkable."

Not Superstitious

Well enough to see the game from the grand stand last week, he sat in left field throughout the Detroit series. "Griff asked me why I didn't sit on the bench," said Joe. "We won the first three games of the series while I was out there, and I was going to stay there all summer if necessary. They won't get a chance to call me the jinx of this club. I wasn't going to sit on the bench and then have the club break its winning streak. No, sir. They can't call me the jinx. Then when Uhle won that 1-to-0 game I figured I could sit on the bench again.

"I'm not superstitious. I just figured that as long as the club was winning while I was sitting in left field that it wouldn't be exactly right for me to move. You know how those things are. It's not that I'm superstitious. I'm just careful about little matters like that. It pays."

Out of the Hat

Judge got a kick out of Bucky Harris' move of pulling his batting order out of a hat the other day in Washington after the Tigers had lost seven straight.

"That's an old trick of Bucky's," Joe began. "He pulled it with us out in Chicago in 1927 just after we had lost thirteen straight. 'The names are going into the hat,' Bucky told me. 'All but yours. You bat fourth.' And Bucky wrote out all the names on slips of paper and pulled them out of the hat. He didn't even get into the line-up himself. And neither did Peck nor Bluege nor Sam Rice.

"Then he drew the names out of the hat again for the batting order. It gave us some line-up. Goslin was batting in eighth place. But Bucky let it go at that. We went on the field and got a four-run lead in the first two innings. Goslin, batting next to last, came up in a great spot and drove in three runs.

Crowder and Blue

Lu Blue, Chicago first baseman, was on his way to the locker room to

MACKS BEAT DETROIT BY 12-2 SCORE

20 Tigers Reach First Base as Mahaffey Lasts Route.

DETROIT, June 7 (A.P.).—The champion Athletics defeated the Detroit Tigers, 12 to 2, in a single-game series here today, but it was not the one-sided victory the score would indicate.

The Tigers got twenty men to first, twelve of them on hits off Mahaffey, and threatened to make some kind of a record by marooning eighteen men on bases.

The Athletics collected fifteen safeties off Sorrell, and Sullivan, who relieved him in the sixth. Foxx hit a homer in the fourth, with one on, and Miller hit for the circuit in the fifth, with two on.

$95,000 Purse Seen For Arlington Classic

Chicago, June 7 (A.P.).—The Classic, which is expected to have a gross value of $95,000, the richest 3-year-old event in the world this season, will be decided at Arlington Park July 18.

The event has attracted every crack 3-year-old in the country and will provide the only Western test for Jamestown, last year's 2-year-old champion.

Other features, including steeplechases and stake races, will offer a total of $220,000 in purses.

Navy Oarsmen Off For Title Regatta

Annapolis, Md., June 7.—The Naval Academy rowing squad over 30 strong, in addition to coaches and other attendants, left Annapolis today for the banks of the Hudson and tomorrow will begin the final prepping for the annual intercollegiate competition.

The naval party will be quartered at Camp Ingram, a boathouse and general retreat constructed a few years ago by the Navy Athletic Association out of funds derived from big out-of-town football games, and named after Commander Jonas H. Ingram, former director of athletics at the academy, who was instrumental in bringing about its erection.

Golfers Start Qualifying at Columbia

Washington Club Victor in Team Play; Other News.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THE largest golf tournament ever held in this section opens this morning on the course of the Columbia Country Club, when the qualifying round of the club's annual invitation event will begin. It was announced last night that the entry list now reaches the hitherto unequalled total of 562 names, necessitating three days for the qualifying rounds. Five sixteens will qualify.

William R. Howell, the 19-year-old golfer of the Hermitage club, Richmond, Va., who has just won the Middle Atlantic golf championship for the second consecutive year, and who last year won the Columbia tournament, has entered to defend his title and will play tomorrow afternoon.

Leading D. C. Golfers To Compete.

Roger S. Peacock, Argyle, and W. Carlton Evans, Columbia, who last year tied for the medal, each with 71, Evans wining in the play-off, will again compete this year.

The field includes all the leading local golfers, led by Frank K. Roesch, Washington, the District amateur champion; Thomas W. Sasscer, formerly Maryland State champion; Harry G. Pitt, former Middle Atlantic champion, and practically all the champions of the various clubs in this section.

Approximately 160 players will tee off today, followed by 206 tomorrow and the remainder of the field on Wednesday. Match play will follow on Thursday and Friday.

Competition for the Lampson Trophy at the Argyle Club yesterday, eighteen holes, medal play, handicap allowance, resulted in a victory for Alex Baumgartner with a card of 90—10—70. He had a consistent score of 40 for each nine and finished the last three holes in par figures despite the heavy rain. Until he had finished his round the lead was held by Humphrey Clasell with 87—16—71.

Catoctin Golf Team Is Beaten.

A team of twelve golfers from the Catoctin Club, Frederick, Md., visited this city yesterday and played against a team of the Washington Golf and Country Club. Dr. R. W. Baer had the distinction of being the only member of the visiting club to win his match, defeating Ray J. Morman, 2 and 1. Competition was in foursomes, three points to a side, two for individual matches and one for best ball, and the Washington team won, 17 to 1.

The summary:

James G. Drain (W) defeated R. R. Taylor (F), 3 and 2. Thomas D. Webb, jr. (W) defeated Carl Snook (F), 3 and 2. Best ball—Washington, 4 and 3. Washington, 3 points.

Cub Homers Defeat Giants in Short Game

Chicago, June 7 (A.P.).—Heavy hitting by Rogers Hornsby and Hack Wilson gave the Chicago Cubs an 8-to-3 victory over the New York Giants this afternoon in the abbreviated second game of the series. Rain halted the contest in the sixth inning.

The Cubs scored in the first and third innings, but lost the advantage when the Giants reached Bush for three runs in the fourth. But the Bruins came back in their half of the inning to collect four after two were out on three singles and Hornsby's home run into the right-field bleachers.

Beer Bill Is Overlooked In Klein's Estimate of Sports Cost in America

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, June 7.—The suspicion, recently expressed in these dispatches, that sports had grown to the dimensions of a considerable industry in the United States, elicits from Dr. Julius J. Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, in Washington, an armful of corroborative data.

"We realize," the doctor writes, "how tremendously important sport is from the strictly industrial point of view. We shall keep this steadily in mind."

At this point your correspondent will apologize to the doctor and the United States Department of Commerce for the suggestion that the department, now that it had so little commerce with which to occupy its energies, investigate the scope of the sports business.

Golf Slaves Number 1,500,000.

"It occurred to me," Dr. Klein writes, "that you might like to know that the department has interested itself in precisely that sort of thing."

In his discussion of the volume of the sports industry Dr. Klein begins at golf, which has, by the department's figures, 1,500,000 slaves playing on 5,000 courses, more than half the total of the world's golf pasturage. These courses provide permanent employment for 15,000 persons and seasonal employment for a much larger but indefinite number, not including 3,000 specialized professionals.

Naturally, being an administration man, Dr. Klein can not acknowledge the refreshment business which is an important and inseparable subdivision of the golf and football industries, employing large numbers of citizens to tend the stills and man the little off-shore boats, and the planes and cars from Canada. But the department shouldn't overlook the ginger ale and mineral water trades, whose robust condition, to some extent attributable to golf, thought not to football, whose addicts generally take theirs straight, out of flasks, is signified by the market quotations on the big board. One of the larger ginger ale stocks, with the return of summer weather and the revival of golf, has risen from 26 to 40.

Sports Help Textile Business.

The investment in golf courses Dr. Klein places at $700,000,000, and the average cost of maintaining the 5,000 layouts is a little more than $21,000, against an average annual income of $24,000.

"Our textile business," says he, "derives an important part of its business from sports, and so do our manufacturers of footwear, from cleated football shoes to rubber boots. Practically every game has its distinctive

BURKE FACES WHITE SOX TODAY

Nats Likely to Draw Thomas; Engel to Tour Minors.

BOBBY BURKE, young southpaw who, after more than four years of trying, gave indications last week of finally having arrived, when he held the Tigers to three hits after seven and a third innings of hitless ball, will endeavor to prove that his last performance was no fluke by twirling against the White Sox in the third game of the current set this afternoon. Alphonse Thomas is expected to do the allen flinging.

The Nationals downed the Bushmen twice in an abbreviated set in Chicago last month, so victory today would give them a record of five in a row over the Windy City gang.

While it does not look as though the Nats' Chattanooga farm is likely to furnish them with any talent for next season, it must be admitted that the Lookouts are doing well in their Southern Association chase. President Griffith, of the Washington club, was advised by long distance telephone yesterday that the whole town, with five bands, turned out to welcome the Lookouts back home Saturday night. The team is now second in the race, and this is the first time this late in the season that a Chattanooga team ever has stood this high, or has had a record of .500 or better.

Engel to Make Scouting Trip.

Scout Joe Engel starts on a scouting trip for the Nationals today. He expects to hunt ivory for at least a month, his jaunt taking him through the American Association and all over the West.

Although Dave Harris was put in Saturday's game because a left-hander opposed the Nats, he hit so well when right-handers later made their appearance that Manager Johnson decided to let him continue in right in Sam Rice's place. "Sheriff" made the first good fielding play of yesterday's game, coming in fast to make a fine grab of Fothergill's looper ending the first. Harris made one single.

Nats were credited with triples in each of the first three frames. Manush got one in the first, Brown in the second and West in the third. The first alien hit was good for three bases, Cissell getting it with two out in the fifth.

Shortstop Joe Cronin, who has had one streak of consecutive-game hitting which extended fourteen games, brought a second one to fifteen in a row when he hit safely in the first yesterday.

Lou Blue Visits Relatives.

Lu Blue had too much to say when Umpire Brick Owens called a third strike on him ending the sixth and the Chisox first-sacker was banished. This caused Lou Fonseca to shift to first and Dick Kerr to get in the game as second-sacker.

A foul off Fothergill's bat in the seventh hit one of the cash customers sitting in the left-field pavilion and smashed a perfectly good straw hat.

Wild heaves past first by Jeffries in the second and by Cissell in the seventh figured prominently in Washington runs. The Chicago shortstop made his after making a fine stop of Cronin's speedy bounder.

Kuhel tried to slip a "fast one" over on Cissell in the eighth after the Chicagoan's tap had been turned into a force-play at second. Kuhel pretended that Myer's peg had gotten by him and made a break as though running for it. Cissell did not fall for it, though, and calmly returned to first after his run.

Bluege coaxed the first walk of the game, Moore passing him with one out in the eighth. Later in the same frame, Brown also drew one.

WINGFOOTS GAIN TITLE.

Akron, Ohio, June 7 (A.P.).—Goodyear Wingfoot Soccer Team, of Akron, won the national amateur championship here today by defeating the New Bedford (Mass.) Black Cats, 2 to 0, on a rain-soaked gridiron before a crowd of 5,000 persons.

The heavier Goodyear Team, champions of the Western Division, had the advantage on the slippery gridiron. The Eastern champions found their team work foiled by unfortunate skids at crucial moments.

Red Sox Hit Ball Hard To Again Beat Browns

Boston, June 7 (A.P.).—The Boston Red Sox went on a batting spree today and beat the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 3. The home-town boys made 14 hits. Sweeney had a perfect day at bat, knocking two singles, a double and a triple, and, in addition, he stole a base.

Webb distinguished himself with brilliant work in the field and at bat. It was the Sox's second straight win in the series and their third successive victory.

Nats Find Lyons for 6 Runs in First 3 Innings.

Chisox Held to 1 Hit to 8th; West Leads Home Attack.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WITH Lloyd Brown pitching great ball, the Nationals yesterday trimmed the White Sox with neatness and dispatch, turning in an 8-to-1 victory in such fast time—1 hour and 26 minutes—that the Sabbath gathering of about 13,000 felt that it had hardly gotten a run for its money.

Our Washington pitchers surely look good after recovering from sore arms. "Sad Sam" Jones allowed the Tigers but five hits in eleven innings Thursday on his return to action following a respite due to an ailing salary wing, while yesterday Brown, under the same conditions, celebrated his return by granting but four safeties.

Chicago's first hit fell to the lot of Cissell in the fifth, going as a triple after Manush had failed to hold the drive following a long run. When the Nat southpaw hurled hitless ball in the next two rounds, the official scorer began to worry about his popularity, fearing that his failure to charge Manush with an error, which would not have been particularly unfair, was going to cost Brown a no-hit game. The visitors hit safely once in the eighth and twice in the ninth, though, so the decision, whether right or wrong, did no harm to any one.

Chisox Get Lone Run in 9th.

It was not until the ninth that the enemy was credited with its lone run and then it took an error by Cronin to make this possible. Pinch-hitter Henline led off with a double just out of West's reach, Kerr fouled to Kuhel and Cronin fumbled Pinch-hitter Reynolds' grounder. Fothergill's long fly after the catch on which Henline scored, would have been the final out had the Nat shortstop done his bit. Fonseca singled but the game ended when West camped under Eichrodt's looper.

Ted Lyons, who has pitched good ball this season, did not have anything in his repertoire which fooled the Nats and retired after the Johnsons had molded six markers in the first three frames, these coming in pairs. Jim Moore, relief hurler, pitched three scoreless frames but then saw his offerings knicked for a run each in the seventh and eighth.

The Nats received a high percentage of interest for their hits, scoring two runs on two twice, two runs on one once, and one run with the need of but one hit on two other occasions, both of the Chicago errors being put to good use.

West Leads Nats' Attack.

All told, there were but eleven Washington safeties, five netting extra bases, with Sam West showing the way with three—a triple and two singles. Pressing West for honors were Heinie Manush, who tripled and doubled, and Oasie Bluege, who smacked out a brace of one-baggers. Spencer and Myer were the only Nats to go hitless.

In the first, Manush tripled with one dead and Cronin's single, a wild pitch, and West's one-baser netted the two tallies which put the Nats in front. Jeffries' two-base peg past first on Bluege's roller, Brown's triple and Myer's long fly enabled the Georgia avenue band to double its score in the second, while the two markers coined in the third came from Harris' single, West's triple and a single off Bluege's bat.

Than Moore toed the Chicago slab and it took the Nats three innings to get on to him. A double play, the only one of the game, prevented hits by West and Bluege from helping any in the seventh, but Manush's double and a two-base heave over first by Cissel, gave the Nats another in the seventh and they called it a day when Kuhel's triple and Spencer's long fly netted still another in the eighth.

Five in Row for Gomez As Yanks Beat Tribe

New York, June 7 (A.P.).—The Yankees played like champions today behind the six-hit pitching of Vernon Gomez, recruit left hander, and defeated the Cleveland Indians, 5 to 1, to even the series. It was Gomez's fifth straight victory.

TWENTY GRAND, JAMESTOWN IN FIRST MEETING SATURDAY

Belmont Race May Decide 1931 Title

Mile and Half Route to Provide Real Title Test.

By THOMAS H. NOONE.

NEW YORK, June 7 (U.P.).—The Belmont Stakes, which will have its sixty-third running at Belmont Park next Saturday, will bring together in competition for the first time Mrs. Payne Whitney's Kentucky Derby winner, Twenty Grand, and George D. Widener's Jamestown.

With its $25,000 in added money, plus nominating and entrance fees, the Belmont usually nets the winner considerably more than the Kentucky Derby, and is regarded as of great importance in the East, because it almost invariably crowns the 3-year-old champion of the year.

Paths Did Not Cross Last Year.

The paths of the Greentree and Widener stars did not cross during their juvenile year. While Jamestown was going at the top of his form at Saratoga Springs last summer, winning in quick succession the Flash, United States and Saratoga Special and finishing second in the Hopeful behind Epithet, Twenty Grand was being permitted to develop. They did not meet in the Futurity, when Jamestown beat Equipoise by a narrow margin.

Not until after Jamestown was shelved for the winter after his brilliant 2-year-old campaign did Twenty Grand come into his own. It was well into the fall when he established a new mile record for the Churchill Downs course, when he defeated Equipoise by a nose over that route in 1:36.

Twenty Grand has won two of his three starts this season, annexing the Wood Memorial, finishing second to mate in the Preakness, and turning in a glorious triumph in the Kentucky Derby in track record time.

Belmont to Provide Real Test.

Jamestown, in two trips to the barrier this year, has won an overnight race and the historic Withers Stakes at the Westchester Association course.

The Belmont, at a mile and half, will provide a true test of the greatness of these two colts, and to the winner will rightfully go the coveted crown of champion.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

ACCORDING to Max Carey, in a semi-professional game played in the South a triple play was actually made without a fielder handling the ball.

With three men on bases, the batter hit an infield fly. According to the playing rules, this automatically put him out. The ball is descending struck the runner, who was on second, on the shoulder, for the second out (base runner hit by batted ball). The ball in glancing off this player's shoulder rolled slowly toward first base and the base-runner on that bag, enraged at the freak turn of events, gave the ball a vicious kick, sending it across the diamond. This completed the freak triple play, for the umpire called the player out for interference. Not a man had handled the ball!

The 16-foot Enrico Caruso memorial candle was constructed at a cost of $3,700. It measures 5 feet in circumference at the base, tapering to about 18 inches at the top, and weighs a ton. The huge candle, which stands in the Church of Our Lady, is burned one day each year, All Saints' Day. At this rate it has been estimated that eighteen centuries will pass before the candle is completely burned down.

—Washington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

WASHINGTON PARK RACE TRACK, Chicago, June 7.—A mediocre program is scheduled for the patrons of the sport at Washington Park tomorrow, which is given over to the cheaper grade of platers. The rainy weather which changed the track condition to muddy reduced the number of entries in the overnight events.. Several of the races attracted well-balanced fields, however, and some keenly contested events should result.

In the allowance affair for 3-year-olds and upward, fourth on the card and the probable feature, six highly regarded sprinters will face the barrier. BOB ROGERS, consistent under fire gelding, should win. He scored impressively in his last two efforts at Aurora over a heavy track, and figures to splash his way to an easy triumph. C. V. Whitney's FLIMSY, a smart filly, is well suited by the conditions and should extend the top selection. RAY BLADES turned in a creditable performance last start and is fancied for the show award.

FIRST RACE—ELKHART, in the R. C. Thatcher Stable, was beaten a nose in his last outing, and, with a drop of 8 pounds, figures best of this band of claimers. CLASBY'S CHOICE was weakly ridden his previous start, and, with better handling, should finish in the runner-up position. MEADOW KING is favored over the others for the short end of the purse.

SECOND RACE — TRY IT has the speed of this field and his second to Suitor in his last effort places the Lowe gelding on top. CAMP PRINCE, game son of Camp Fire, displayed rare courage in his last winning effort and is given the place call, with SISTER MARY as the show selection.

THIRD RACE—EASTER TIME, from the Dixiana Stable, winner of his last two starts at this track, is favored in this dash. This High Time colt is bred to negotiate the heavy going which will prevail. Chief opposition should be furnished by ADOBE POST, winner of four straight in his brief career. The Knebelkamp and Morris juvenile may not revel in the mud, but should last to gain the place. INDIAN RUNNER is another speed marvel which showed mud running ability at the Downs. The H. P. Headley juvenile scored handsomely in his previous three outings and is capable of taking down the major award. TELLICO has raced consistently lately and must be accorded a chance in this company.

FIFTH RACE—WEE DROP, from the A. A. Baroni Stable, appears a standout over her nine rivals, here. This daughter of Simulus scored easily through the mud last start and should annex the purse. PLAYFELLOW'S DREAM is attaining his best form and many prove troublesome. REVERBERATE won in the mud at 6 furlongs and may get into the picture.

SEVENTH RACE—SILVER SCEPTER showed speed in her Maryand campaign and is selected to win the concluding number. HOMEWOOD weakened in his last attempt and should improve enough to gain the place. SUNNY MORN will favor the track conditions and is fancied over the others for the show end of the purse.

PRIMO BOUT HIGH POINT OF WEEK

Carnera, Redmond Clash at Brooklyn Wednesday.

NEW YORK, June 7 (A.P.).—That famous minor league heavyweight, Pat Redmond, tangles with Primo Carnera at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Wednesday night in what promises to be the most entertaining of the Nation's fistic offerings this week.

Redmond is the emergency opponent Jimmy Johnston secured to meet Carnera when the big Italian was restrained by Federal injunction from fighting Jack Sharkey, or any other major opponent. In point of size, Redmond, who has done all of his fighting around here in the small clubs, is a close match for the big Italian. The Irishman stands 6 feet 4 and weighs around 230 pounds.

The only activity in Madison Square Garden from a boxing standpoint will take place tomorrow night, when the third of the so-called new talent shows is put on.

Boston, New Haven, Cleveland and Hollywood, Calif., have the best offerings among other fistic centers. At Braves Field, Boston, tomorrow, Babe Hunt, veteran Ponca City, Okla., heavyweight, tackles Paul Swiderski, hard-hitting boy from Syracuse. At Hollywood on Friday, Speedy Dado, speedy Los Angeles featherweight, meets Roy Montoya, of San Diego.

New Haven's show on Wednesday features Kid Chocolate, Cuban featherweight, in a ten-round bout with Steve Smith, of Bridgeport, Conn. These boys have met twice before and Chocolate galloped off with the decision each time.

Heavyweight Feature Next Fort Washington Program

Huttick, Who Flattened Schwartz, Meets Denning, Navy Champion, Next Monday Night; Gallagher Gets Winner.

ARTHUR HUTTICK, former amateur light heavyweight champion of the United States and Jack Denning, all-Navy heavyweight champion are to clash in the feature over a 10-round route in the Fort Washington Athletic Association's second fistic venture next Monday night at Fort Washington.

Huttick has been hailed as one of the flashies of the younger heavyweights to show at Madison Square Garden during the past winter. His fists struck close to home last February when he finished Billy Schwartz, of Alexandria, in the first round after 40 seconds of milling at the Garden.

It was announced last night that the winner of this bout would be matched with Marty Gallagher within two weeks.

Huttick was for three years the light heavyweigh champion of the National Guard. His showing in amateur circles so impressed Al Singer, former ruler of the lightweight division that he took Art unde rhis wing. Huttick is said to be fast and punches had with both hands and is a great crowd pleaser.

Denning is not unknown in fistic circles. He defeated Ad Warren after the latter had gained a verdict over Marty Gallagher. This took place soon after Denning joined the ranks of pro fighting.

Jack held the light heavyweight championship of the Navy for three years, trouncing the best of the heavies in Uncle Sam's fleet annually.

Maj. Alexander Patch announced last night that four six-round bouts would supplement the main go. Efforts will be made to move the starting time of the boat up to 7:15 o'clock.

Additional bleacher seats will be installed this week. Tickets are to go on sale at Vic Gauzza's Sport Store, Thursday night.

GRUBB'S NINE ROCKVILLE VICTIM

Giants Fail to Make Good Their Boasts and Lose, 9-5.

BROOKE GRUBB, manager of the toward Welch Field yesterday Howitzer Giants, led his cohorts for the sole purpose of burying the Rockville team beneath an avalanche of runs. After having blown loud and long on the hot air bugle, he finally convinced every one of his sincerity of purpose and his confidence by accepting a "winner take all" proposition.

The final score being 9 to 5 in favor of Rockville A. A., and with the usual Sunday attendance, Mr. Grubb lost somewhere in the neighborhood of 50 sheckels. Friends of Mr. Grubb, knowing his weakness, will be expected to extend their sympathy toward him at this time.

Giants Take Early Lead.

The Giants scored three runs in the first inning, due to Coleman's inability to find the plate. With Francis pitching effectively, it looked as if the Giants had the game well in hand. In the fourth, Rockville scored two runs on successive hits by P. Coleman, Stupp and E. Hutchinson. In the fifth, scoring two more runs, Rockville went out in front and after that it was just another ball game.

W. Coleman was effective throughout the game, throwing his fast one by the Giants consistently. His occastional streaks of wildness, however, allowed the Giants to score four of their five runs,

P. Coleman, coming out of his recent slump, led the local team at bat with three hits out of five trips to the plate.

Milburn Is Fielding Star.

Reds Take Opener, 10-9; Braves Win Second, 8-2

Cincinnati, June 7 (A.P.).—The Boston Braves stopped the Reds' winning streak at five by taking the second game of a double-header, 10 to 9, here today after the Reds had won the opener, 8 to 2.. Timely hitting by the Reds along with good pitching by Red Lucas, won the first game for the Reds, but a parade of pitchers by both teams failed to stop the hitting in the nightcap with Boston showing the greater strength toward the end.

DIXIE PIGS EXTEND STREAK IN CAPITAL CITY LEAGUE FEATURE

Ciro's Villagers	1	5	.167

IN A GRUELLING pitchers' battle, the Dixie Pigs added another link to its unbroken string of Capital City League victories with a hard-earned 2-to-1 win over the challenging Columbia Heights nine on the Berwyn Field yesterday in a Section A game. It was the closest decision recorded in league play this season.

The revamped Ciro's Villagers scored a startling upset victory over the Griffith-Blue Coals on the Phoenix Diamond, winning by a score of 16 to 6, while the St. Joseph's team was nosing out the Congress Heights team, 7 to 6, on the latter's field. The victory gave the Saints undisputed possession of third place and enabled them to get within hailing distance of the Columbia Heights aggregation.

The Pigs could conect for but two clean blows off Babe Wesley's offerings, the four others recorded being of the scratch variety. These, sandwiched in with walks, produced the winning runs in the sixth and eighth innings.

Collier Starts With Walk.

In the sixth, Collier walked, and scored on Radtke's blow to left, which Shapiro muffed, while in the eighth Stahl, after walking, stole second and came home on Radtke's single, which was a clean, stinging drive to center. The Heights nine counted in the seventh, but was powerless from that juncture on. Wesley, for the Columbias, and Cubertson, for the Dixies, hurled great ball. Both were aided immeasurably by stellar work on the part of their mates.

Joe Freschi was the hero of the Ciro's triumph over the Griffs. In addition to holding his opponents to six well-scattered blows, Freschi aided his own cause by banging out four hits in five attempts.

The Villagers drove Ensor from the mound in the fourth with a five-run attack that raised their total to ten, just six more than the Coalmen could boast. Corcoran, with four safe blows in six tries, led the winning sluggers. Just before the game the members of the winning team received new uniforms, and these probably had an important part in the victory.

Frank Cinotti found himself in an embarrassing position in his team's encounter with the Congress Heights nine. Schneider, who started for the Saints, held his opponents scoreless for six frames, while his own team was compiling a six-run lead. Ingram, who relieved him in the seventh, immediately began to undo his predecessor's good work by allowing the Heightsmen six runs before the side could be retired. Berger and Hall led at bat for St. Joseph's, while Fratantatuano's bingle in the final frame drove Johnny Bozek over with the deciding marker.

THE Majestic Radios passed the Army Medicos in the race for the title in Section B by turning back the soldiers, 9 to 6, on the Walter Reed diamond yesterday. The victory avenged the Majestics for the ten-inning, 5-to-4 defeat they had suffered at the hands of the Medicos in their first league start.

Saks Clothiers kept on the heels of the leading Capitol Heights Team with an easy 8-to-1 win over the Foxall tossers on the Barracks diamond while the Capital Heights nine idled.

Frank do Nenna hurled in splendid fashion in holding the slugging Medicos in check. After a shaky start, when his opponents scored a lone run, Di Nenna hurled air-tight ball until the sixth, while he again wobbled, and the losers scored three additional runs.

The slim pitcher's energy sagged a third time in the final round, but he managed to wiggle out of his precarious position, with men on the bases, to gain the decision. Walter "Fats" Edwards put the Majestics in the lead with a smashing home run, with two on base, in the fourth inning. Lewis hurled well for the soldiers, but errors hurt his cause.

Saks tossers had everything their own way in their encounter with the Foxall troupe yesterday, scoring almost at will and coasting in with the victory that enabled them to keep apace of the Capital Heights nine. Bill Payne, former Western High moundsman, was well-night invincible, allowing only four hits and fanning eight. Sebastian topped the Clothiers at bat with a quartet of safe blows in as many attempts.

OLMSTED 14-6 VICTOR OVER LINWORTH

Thomas Wins Senior Feature; Lionels, Koontz Score.

THE Olmsted Grill pasted two Linworth pitchers all over the lot yesterday, winning the ball game by a score of 14-6, and with it undisputed possession of first place deadlock for third place, the former with an unexpected 8-5 win over in section A of The Post's Capital City League. The Lionels and Koontz the C. A. O'Briens, and the latter a 5-2 decision over the improved Dixie A. C.

In section B the Miller-Roamers continued at the top of the heap with a thrilling 1-0 victory over the strong Franc Jewelry Co. nine, while the Sterlings were also retaining their undefeated score with a close 11-9 win over the Chevy Chase aggregation. The Acme Printers garnered their second league victory, defeating the Mount Rainier tossers, 13-6.

Olmsted Wins Easily.

The much-heralded battle for the league leadership between the Olmsteds and the Linworths failed to materialize, the former romping home an easy winner. "Bud" Thomas completely baffled the Southwest boys with his slants, holding them in check throughout the fray. Steve Thomas and Frank Cimberland starred for the losers. Cumberland's play afield was particularly impressive. Sorrell led the Grillmen at bat with four hits.

And Oehmann failed to halt the mad rush of the Lionels yesterday, the Georgetowners taking the veer-dict, 8-5, in a game which saw both teams playing heads-p ball. The Irish counted all of their scores in the ninth inning, but the rally fell short of overtaking the Lionels. Jake Farrell and Kearney played best for their respective teams.

HOW IT BEGAN

FLOWER GIRLS

IN MEDIEVAL TIMES TWO LITTLE GIRLS DRESSED ALIKE WALKED AHEAD OF THE BRIDE AND SCATTERED WHEAT TO SYMBOLIZE A FRUITFUL UNION. OUR MODERN FLOWER GIRL DERIVES FROM THIS CUSTOM.

IS NIGHT AIR UNHEALTHFUL?

IN OLDEN TIMES EXPOSURE TO NIGHT AIR WAS BELIEVED TO CAUSE MALARIA AND OTHER DISEASES. NO CONTROL METHODS WERE USED. THEN TO COMBAT THE FEMALE MOSQUITO, WHO FEEDS AT NIGHT. TODAY, WITH SCREENS, SPRAYS AND THE ELIMINATION OF BREEDING PLACES, WE MODERNS NEED NOT FEAR NIGHT AIR, BUT THE SUPERSTITION REMAINS.

THE DEVIL TO PAY

WHEN OLD-TIME SAILORS FILLED CRACKS IN THEIR WOODEN-HULLED SHIPS WITH PITCH, THE CRACKS NEAREST THE WATER-LINE WERE CALLED "DEVILS" BECAUSE THEY WERE SO HARD TO FIX. "TO PAY" MEANT TO "PITCH." NOW WE USE THE EXPRESSION "THE DEVIL TO PAY" WHEN WE ARE IN TROUBLE.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

A CHILD'S BAD HABIT.

FEW bad habits of children cause more inconvenience than enuresis. Even of greater importance is the emotional reaction of the child who has the habit. He considers himself in some way different. Partly as the result of that, partly because of what he learns from other children, and partly because of punishment or parental attitude, the child with the enuresis habit may develop an inferiority complex, or some other unnatural mental slant.

Parents do not understand why their child differs from others and, in their questioning, they often acquire notions that are wrong, and many of them are misleading.

Children have the habit because they sleep too soundly.

Enuresis can be expected in children who cut their teeth too early, or too late; or who walk too early or are slow in learning to walk.

On the other hand, Dr. F. N. Anderson investigated the subject and found that there were many factors which contributed to this habit, some of which are not often regarded as important. In the main, he regards enuresis as a manifestation of emotional and personality disturbance resulting from social maladjustment and wrong training and as rarely due to physical causes, or diseases, or lack of mentality. Among Anderson's conclusions are these:

GIVING COD LIVER OIL.

D. R. writes: I have a baby girl 18 months old and she is very bowlegged. I have tried to give her cod liver oil, but can not get her to take it. Will you suggest a way that I could get her to take it? Is there anything else I can give her? Could I put braces on her legs? Could I rub them with something? Her legs must be very weak because she falls quite a bit.

REPLY.

Have you tried giving it in fruit juice, root beer, soda water?

You can give it to her in pill form. You can give viosterol and irradiated foods.

Rubbing the legs will not have much effect. Having her wear braces may be advisable. Let your doctor decide. Of course, your child has rickets. You let the horse get out of the stable and some distance down the road before you thought of locking the stable door.

TOBACCO AND HEARTBURN.

D. J. McD. writes: Would tobacco cause heartburn and dizziness?

REPLY.

Mexican Tong Warfare Is Described in Court

Mexico City, June 7 (A.P.).—Years of tong warfare in which there are alleged to have been a number of assassinations were testified to in a court investigation here of charges that tong leaders bribed government employes to have their enemies deported.

Officials of the Lun Sing Tong, ten of whose members are said to have been sent from Mexico before the bribery accusations were made, told authorities that at least one slaying occurred in Mexicali and several in other Lower California cities by agencies of the Che Kong Tong.

A list of killings in other parts of the country, attributed to the rival tongs, also were enumerated.

ARLINGTON SERVICE HELD IN TRIBUTE TO CONFEDERATE DEAD

GRAVES DECORATED AND "TAPS" SOUNDED

Veterans March to Scene of Rites; American Legion Presents Colors.

That the American people should never forget the part played by veterans of wars gone by, in which they have upheld the honor of these United States, and that they should never cease to honor those who have gone on before, was the point stressed by former Senator A. C. Stanley in his address to several hundred people at the Confederate Memorial exercises yesterday afternoon in the Confederate section of Arlington National Cemetery.

The shrill notes of a bugle sounded promptly at 2:30 o'clock and the veterans formed in a column of twos at the west gate, from which they marched to the Confederate Monument, led by the Marine Band, where the colors were presented by the American Legion.

Veterans Kept Heads Up.

Some of the gallant old warriors had to be helped along, but they kept their heads up and their eyes straight to the front.

Following presentation of the colors, invocation was delivered by the Rev. John E. Briggs, of the Fifth Baptist Church. Gen. W. L. Wilkinson, commander of Camp, 171, U. C. V., said a few words of praise to his fellow soldiers, and then introduced former Senator Stanley, the speaker of the afternoon.

At the close of Mr. Stanley's address, the Rev. R. H. Deal, of the Mount Vernon Methodist Church, delivered the benediction, which was followed by taps.

Graves Are Decorated.

The exercises closed with the strewing of flowers over the graves of the Confederate dead by the Daughters and Children of the Confederacy, assisted by the Junior Memorial Society, to the strains of the hymn "Cover Them Over With Flowers."

Pastor Tells of Hope For Periled Children

Children were viewed as "imperiled" throughout the world, in a children's day sermon yesterday by the Rev. Gove G. Johnson, at the National Baptist Memorial Church.

The Rev. Mr. Johnson, who spoke on the "Lord's Supper," and "the two centers of our hope—the cross and the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ," said this dual hope vastly concerns the children of today.

"See them in Russia, growing up inoculated with hate," he said. "See them in India, victims still of the bottomless woes of child marriage. See them in America, desolated by divorce of parents. What hope is there for them?"

His sermon follows in full.

"As often as ye eat this bread and drink the cup, ye proclaim the Lord's death till He come." (I Cor., xi:26.)

Is a "Preaching Ordinance."

"Like baptism, it is 'preaching ordinance.' As baptism sets forth the believer's death to sin and resurrection to new life in the Saviour, so the Lord's Supper sets forth the death of Christ for sin and His coming again for the full and final salvation of His own and of all who put their trust in Him.

"The Supper has been called a verbum visibile, a visible word, 'a rite which looks forward as well as backward, a rehearsal of the Passion Supper, a foretaste of the Marriage Supper of the Lamb.' Paul says here, 'I received of the Lord that which I delivered unto you.' Faithful disciple, true to his trust. So may we all always deliver what we have received in the sacred trust of the Gospel for all mankind.

"See, then, the two tremendous events here proclaimed: First, the death of Jesus Christ for all men, for 'we are sinners all,' as Shakespeare admitted; and, as God's Word says, 'All have sinned, and fall short of the glory of God, being justified freely by His grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus.'

Life is Found in Cross.

"See that central event of human history, the cross of Christ! Hear Jesus saying at the first Supper, 'This cup is my blood shed for many for the remission of sins.' All our hope of pardon and peace centers there—'pardon and peace for all'! We preach Christ crucified, because:

" 'Whosoever believeth on God's only One,
Whosoever believeth on God's only Son,
A free and a perfect salvation shall have,
For He is abundantly able to save.'

"To this cross millions have looked and found real and everlasting life. No one ever looked in vain. Look, look and live!

"Then there is that other center of our hope—the second coming of Jesus Christ. 'We proclaim the Lord's death till He come.' Doubted by some, scouted by others, this coming event is our 'blessed hope.' Jesus said, 'I will come again.' Let none doubt it. There it stands, the future event which will consummate our hope, and mankind's, as that past event on Calvary began it. It is as certain as sunrise that Jesus Christ will come back again and that there will be set up the rule of righteousness and love and peace for this old world for which He died. There they are, the cross and the coming of Christ, like the two foci of a great ellipse, the perfect curve of God's redeeming love—the two centers of our hope, 'the Lord's death till He come.'

Hope Is Far Reaching.

"Now, see how far reaching and abounding is this hope thus based. It vitally and eternally concerns each one of us and ours.

"It concerns our times mightily, these times of upheaval and unrest, of 'distress of nations,' of uncertainty and anxiety. Not economic remedy, but heart cure is needed most. The dealing with sin and selfishness is imperative. Christ's cross is the sure and only cure—

" 'When the woes of life o'ertake me,
Hopes deceive and fears annoy,
Never shall the cross forsake me,
Lo, it glows with peace and joy!'

"So, too, His coming will remedy our present-day malady. Then will love and justice prevail. God hasten the day! 'Let all that look for hasten the coming, joyful day—the crowning day that's coming by and by.'

"This dual hope vastly concerns our children also. This is children's day, and how precious they are, and how imperilled at this time! See them in Russia, growing up inoculated with hate. See them in India, victims still of the bottomless woes of child marriage. See them in America, desolated by divorce of parents.

Hope Lies in Christ.

"What hope is there for them? Just this, that we have and give to them the the Children's Friend, the Saviour who died for them and for us all, and who is coming again to set up the kingdom of His everlasting love.

"This hope, based on these two all-important events of the past and the future—the death and return of the risen Lord Jesus—vitally concerns ourselves, who today have the good news brought to us. Nothing else does concern us so closely and lastingly. Around these two fixed points our hope shall swing in perfect blessedness. Away from them is chaos, and ruin! 'From the cross the radiance streaming' adds new luster to our day, and toward Christ's coming we look with unfailing hope and unbounded joy.

"Oh, friend, base thus your hope while you may!"

CATHOLIC U. CLASS OF 1931 HEARS PLEA FOR IDEALS IN LIFE

Rev. Dr. Maurice S. Sheehy, in Baccalaureate Address, Counsels Students.

CONDITIONS IN WORLD ANALYZED BY SPEAKER

Places Blame for Unrest and Discusses Radicalism in Various Countries.

World unrest is chargeable to the fact that national leaders are "very often men in whom power, intellectual and otherwise, is separate from moral purpose," the Rev. Dr. Maurice S. Sheehy, of the faculty of religion, Catholic University of America, declared yesterday in his baccalaureate address to the 1931 graduating class of more than 400 at the Brookland institution.

Chief of the lessons the college graduate should take from the past was that life without an ideal, without a purpose, was not worth the living, Dr. Sheehy said, citing the life of Christ as a major criterion. "Christ lived with a purpose," he said, "therefore, in Him power, both intellectual and spiritual, was but a means to an end."

"The lamentations which reach our ears from all parts of the country today would not be so loud had Americans not confused prosperity with virtue," Dr. Sheehy said.

Explains Catholic Positions.

He defined morality as culture translated into action. If the Catholic attitude toward life is peculiar, he proceeded, it is simply because it insists that we see life as a whole; it insists on the certitude that man is created for a future and eternal life and that all pleasures and pursuits must be subordinate to that. "This," said Dr. Sheehy, "explains the Catholic attitude toward divorce, birth control and the sanctity of the marriage tie."

Speaking of world conditions Dr. Sheehy said: "Something most unusual seems to be happening in the world today. Nations and governments which are ordinarily sluggish, self-centered and somnolent have been rudely awakened. The average collegian, secluded within the walls of a college and absorbed in academic interests, may not grasp the real import of what is going on in the world. Most of you are aware that there is a government in Russia which has substituted itself in place of God as an object of worship.

"You know that something has happened in Spain, that the oldest monarchy in Europe has been overturned.

"The daily newspapers inform us that in Italy there is a deadly conflict between nationalism, a form of the philosophy of naturalism and supernaturalism, a conflict which has stirred to its depths that ancient and honored people.

Would Rewrite History.

"In our own country heroic efforts are being made, and some say they are made too late, to stem the tide of discontent, of disorder, and of political revolution. There are those who wish to rewrite the history of the human race, to uproot everything pertaining to law, to government and to religion; these exhibit youthful minds, youthful in the sense of immaturity and inexperience."

The baccalaureate mass was held in the crypt of the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception yesterday morning. The Rev. Dr. Nicholas Weber, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, celebrated the mass.

Final commencement exercises, at which degrees will be conferred on graduates from all branches of the university, will be held Wednesday morning. William J. Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, will deliver the principal address, and the Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore, will preside at the ceremonies.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS.

HONORARY DEGREES FOR 1931.

GOWANUS COLLEGE, using the new automatic hopper, folder and high-speed distributor, today conferred the following honorary degrees to outstanding figures in American life, if any.

Jared W. Hollock, Jr., gentleman, scholar, backgammon player, and veteran hitch-hiker—We honor you, Mr. Hollock, as one of the greatest benefactors of the human race, particularly in the suburban districts. In giving the world a lawn mower that can not be operated before 9 a. m. in any climate you have helped to make suburban life bearable to millions and contributed signally to the cause of human happiness. Long may you wave, and will you kindly use the side door going out?

* * * *

Poultney Hackleback, archery enthusiast, bird student, public accountant and yodeler extraordinary—It is a pleasure and a high honor to give you either the degree or its equivalent in cash for what the nation regards as one of the most commendable drives of this generation, your relentless crusade to abolish the drug store sandwich. This movement, coming so close on your leadership in the campaign to make soda fountain clerks wash the glasses in clean water, establishes you as a great humanitarian. Nothing is too good for you. Kindly wait in the reception room. And will you have a cigar?

* * * *

Maximilian B. V. Dee, banker, broker, student of economics, financial wizard and pinochle player extraordinary — All we know about you, Maximilian, old thing, is that you issued one statement since October, 1929, that was not 90 per cent wrong. That in itself places you in a field apart from the other financiers of the country.

* * * *

CHITNEY L. KLOTZ, manufacturer, trade expert, business man and Tom Thumb golf course addict—It has been called to our attention that as a leading manufacturer you made public speeches denouncing as un-American all attempt to lower the wage scale and did NOT immediately fire 10 per cent of your help and cut the pay of the others. There may be a catch in it some place, but your conduct is so unusual that it commands recognition. Coffee and crackers will be found in the basement. Not responsible for hats and overcoats.

* * * *

Maxwell J. Jitters, husband, father, movie fan and flora and fauna collector—Three incidents during the past year have placed you on a pinnacle as the possessor of a great brain:

1. You bought nothing in the stock market during the so-called December lows.
2. You have continued to play the old golf ball.
3. On four occasions this spring you turned on the garden hose to wet down the lawn and remembered to shut off the water before going to bed.

In addition to the degree, Mr. Jitters, we are giving you a large cut of strawberry shortcake (with berries) and an autographed picture of Clara Bow.

TAKING NO CHANCES.

THEY say that one of the prominent American golfers in the British open, who had made a good showing in the first round, asked nervously as he started for the second, "Jones isn't here this year, is he?"

"No," was the reply.

"Positive."

"Well," replied the golfer, "wire me confirmation in case I get going poorly."

JUNGLE SONG.

Here's to the chigger
That isn't any bigger
Than the head of a very small pin;
But the lump that it raises
Itches like the blazes
And that's where the rub comes in!

JIMMIE HANNAGAN.

FRED HULL reports that the Yale librarian has removed "Main Street" from the fiction shelves and put it under autobiography, following Sinclair Lewis' recent visit.

If any distinguished guest parades up Broadway these days, there is a grave danger that the brokerage houses will keep the confetti and shower him with stock certificates.

Parking is prohibited in lower Broadway, New York, and for the first time in years it is possible to make a trip through the Grand Canyon without a nervous collapse. Traffic in the Wall street district has been cleared up so much, in fact, that four dividends can be passed abreast.

SPAIN'S PRESIDENT KEEPS OFFICE OPEN

Callers Come and Go Day and Night and He Likes to Welcome Them.

Madrid, June 7 (A.P.).—His eyes still have a friendly twinkle as he chats with friends, an eagerness as he discusses any of the multitude of problems confronting the provisional president of the second Spanish republic.

But Niceto Alcala Zamora has been studying and reading and writing too much and too long, the oculists say.

Those friendly piercing eyes behind silver-mounted spectacles are puckered around with lines of strain, and they need a rest.

"But how can I rest now?" Don Niceto asked the specialists. And, answering his own question, he hasn't.

He has given his personal fortune and recent years of his energy and intelligence to the establishment of the republic he now heads. And he is willing to give his eyes if he has to.

However, it isn't that bad yet. He is not considered in any immediate danger of losing his sight, although it has rapidly weakened of late. Any kind of paper work is a real strain.

Callers Are Welcome.

In one way his associates are glad to welcome a constant stream of callers day and night. They keep him away from his desk and from peering at documents.

He likes to stand up when he talks, and more often than not walks visitors over to one of the big windows in his office, keeping them standing there during conferences.

He prefers to use Spanish, but speaks French easily and understands English, Italian and Portuguese. He is well read in all five languages.

While he was in jail—between the unsuccessful December revolt to the triumph of April—he read and wrote incessantly by a dim light.

All that, of course, was none too good for eyes already wearied. At least, he has had better light since he has become president.

Office Lacks Pomp.

There is not much form and ceremony about his office in the palace of the council of ministers.

The place used to swarm with liveried doormen and ushers and attendants of all sorts—to say nothing of police and civil guards.

Most of them are gone now, or at least are out of uniform and doing some sort of work.

A couple of guards can usually be seen somewhere around, but they seem bored. One liveried usher downstairs, and one on the second floor, where the president has his offices, seem to Alcala Zamora quite enough uniform for the headquarters of a republic.

If visitors know the direction, they are at liberty to saunter in, join a crowd that perpetually packs a huge salon adjoining Alcala Zamora's private room, smoke cigarettes and wait to see the president.

And sooner or later every one with patience succeeds. The president practices the republican principles he preaches. He turns nobody away within the limits of, say, a 10-hour working day and the time he must give to official matters.

LIVING COSTS LOW WITHIN PAPAL CITY

What Costs but $1 in Rome Costs Only 45 Cents There.

Vatican City, June 7 (A.P.).—It costs only half as much to live in this independent sovereign city as in Rome, which entirely surrounds it.

No customs duties or taxes add to the prices of things, and the 600 citizens of the papal state buy supplies at cost.

Contraband-running nowhere offers more tempting profits, but there is no dodging the Italian customs, for all citizens of the Vatican City are known and the gates are so guarded that if an outsider should manage to buy here he would have no chance of taking out his purchase.

The exception to this rule is found in the large households of the cardinals who live in Rome. As citizens of the papal state, they have the right to buy here, and have their purchases delivered to their homes.

Comparison of prices in Vatican City and Rome shows that the Vatican City citizen gets his goods at less than half the prices charged on the other side of St. Peter's square.

The grade of coffee sold here at 19 cents a pound, costs 77 cents in Rome; tea is $1.20 here and $2.15 outside the walls; sugar is 3 3-5 cents, compared with 15 cents; salt, 1¾ instead of 6 cents, and cigars, tobacco and cigarettes sell for about two-fifths the Italian price.

In general, what costs a dollar in Rome may be had here for 45 cents.

Reports of tubercular patients in outlying districts of the Starmont Aid-for-Tuberculosis Society will be the topic of discussion at the final meeting this morning at 10:30 at the home of Mrs Appleton Clark, 1778 Lanier place northwest.

Committee Plans Meetings to Agree on Militant Election Ticket.

(Associated Press.)

The Socialist party executive committee yesterday announced plans for a series of regional conferences which it said are intended "to mobilize public sentiment for independent political action in next year's elections and to knit more closely together the various groups committed to placing a militant Socialist ticket in the field."

The conferences are to be held in various parts of the country during the next four months.

Reports of a recent survey to determine the extent to which popular support is likely to be given to a third party ticket on a socialistic program will be submitted at a meeting of the national executive committee in Pittsburgh next Saturday and Sunday.

JUDGES WILL VIEW FLAG DESIGNS TODAY

The first meeting of judges in the contest conducted by The Washington Post for design of District flag will meet this morning. The contest closed Saturday night with a regular flood of last-minute drawings and suggestions. Every design submitted will be presented this morning to the judges, as they start their task of picking out the most appropriate pattern for a flag for the District.

The person who draws the design eventually adopted as the official emblem of the District of Columbia will be in a class with Betsy Ross.

Many contestants in sending in suggestions for the emblem expressed regret that the District of Columbia, the heart of the Nation, had gone for so many years without a flag. The need is great and the stimulus added by The Post in conducting the contest, together with the bicentennial celebration next year, may bring forth a flag of which every Washingtonian may be proud.

Within the next few days the winner will be announced and the prize of $25 will be paid to the person who submitted the most appropriate design.

GRADUATES CALLED PILLARS OF SOCIETY

Southeastern U., Y. M. C. A. Schools to Give Awards Wednesday Night.

Likening the young college graduate of today to an iron pillar forged to be part of "the underpinning of society," the Rev. Dr. Albert J. McCartney, pastor of the Church of the Covenant, Eighteenth street and Connecticut avenue northwest, yesterday preached the baccalaureate sermon to more than 100 graduates of Southeastern University and affiliated Y. M. C. A. schools.

A capacity congregation heard the address which was attended by graduates in caps and gowns. Besides the Southeastern University group, schools represented were the Washington Preparatory School and the Woodward School for Boys.

Function of Christian manhood and womanhood, Dr. McCartney said in his sermon, is to get in under society with fresh strength and with this new undergirding strive for its general uplift.

Diplomas and degrees will be awarded at exercises Wednesday night in Memorial Continental Hall. Roger Whiteford, attorney, will deliver graduation address and diplomas will be awarded by Dr. James A. Bell, director of education.

Mrs. Brusiloff's Leg Broken As Runaway Horse Hits Tree

Mrs. Esther Brusiloff, wife of Leon Brusiloff, orchestra conductor at the Fox Theater, suffered a broken leg yesterday afternoon when the horse she was riding brushed against a tree and threw her to the ground on the Polo Field in Potomac Park.

Mrs. Brusiloff was riding with her husband and Milton Dunn, their attorney, when Mrs. Brusiloff's horse apparently was frightened by a passing automobile, Mr. Dunn said last night. Mr. Brusiloff and Mr. Dunn spurred their horses in an effort to stop the runaway, and Mr. Dunn almost succeeded.

He got within 20 feet of the fleeing horse, but the steed suddenly brushed against a tree, fracturing Mrs. Brusiloff's right leg just above the ankle and throwing her to the ground. She was taken to Emergency Hospital for treatment.

SOVIETS SIGN UP TO BUY BIG CROPS

Contracts Are Being Made for Production on 225,000,000 Acres.

Moscow, June 7 (A.P.).—Expending its policy of buying farm products in advance from individual peasants and collectivized farms, the Soviet Union is this year signing up contracts for the crops on 225,000,000 acres.

More than half of these purchases are of grain, and already more than 80 per cent of the agreements for the cereal output of 125,000,000 have been signed.

The program calls for advance purchase of 5,400,000 acres of cotton, 3,000,000 acres of sugar beets, 7,500,000 of hemp and flax, 460,000 of tobacco, and considerable areas devoted to soy beans and sunflower seeds, which are cultivated for their vegetable oils.

The system works out about this way:

The government furnishes mineral fertilizers, farm implements, expert agricultural advice and supervision and selected seed grains to peasants who sign contracts. There are also some advance cash payments which have been estimated for the year at about $172,500,000, an average of about 75 cents an acre.

Ivan's final return for his labor depends then upon the quality of the farming that he does. If he gets a good crop of better than average quality, he sells it to the government after harvest at a premium over the "run of mine" prices paid for farm products. If he lays down on the job he is out of luck.
